friday, 11 p.m...dark, lonely, sallow after-hours at niles west...a sole, faded moonbeam lazily glances through a window fo the locker room, casting a shroud of shadow on a non-descript pair of sneakers in the corner...sneakers ...nondescript sneakers in a deeply shadowed corner of the niles west locker room...even darkness can't conceal them--like shakespeare observed, a sneaker by any other name would still smell just as moldy and sweaty...sneakers ...line them up back to back, side to side, toe to toe, heel to heel---and all you've got is a pair of sneakers merely existing in a dark, deserted corner of the niles west locker room...nighttime reigned as the sneakers feigned sleep...then someone threw on the light...

Mike, It's been nice having you in my homeroom. Good luck next year.

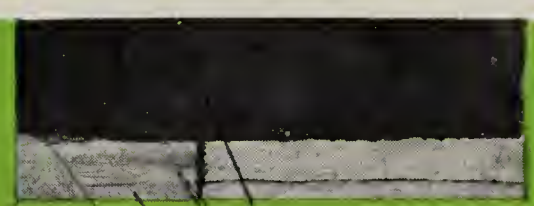
INTRODUCTION



One broken foot plus three weeks out of school adds up to extra help in geometry during one of Mr. Tarpey's conference periods.

...students learn about a lot more than shakespeare from a good english teacher...because the good teacher is the one who guides students toward their creative individuality, the one who savors the juicy deliciousness of an occasional digression, the one who is mature enough to bite his tongue before bellowing "my views shall be thy views..." and both administrators and instructors influence students--on academic and authoritarian levels, of course, but also on an amicable, affectionate level...usually behind the text lies a world of individual experience, shared with the student simply for the asking...

Fiercely clutching to the security of a rumpled teddy bear, Mr. Robert Johnson reflects upon the progress of "Pooh" rehearsals.

Mr. Richard Manger returns to West to momentarily recapture the academic life he abandoned.

As students question politics, Student Council advisor Mr. Bob Lawler sympathetically listens.

Mr. Bob Fizzel contemplates the privacy of an empty class room, the solitude of a globe.

Carefree and confident, Senior Cabinet officers "cast their fate to the wind."

Mastering the art of simultaneously chatting on the phone and cramming for finals, Judy Klein panics - the Niles West way.

Amidst the chaotic tumult of a Student Council meeting, Esther nostalgicly recalls her Israeli homeland.

...seniors, with their niles west dreams realized, individually prepare for the future... four years of honey horseradish have elapsed...but a senior has devoured the largest portion of his rationality pie at niles west--he has gradually faced and befriended the three "I's": life, learning and love--which have slit the silence of his existence...deep-mouthed echoes intensify a senior's memories--his identifity illuminates his hip pocket if he has (simply) succeeded while doing his own thing--if this individual incarnation has made someone else happy, too...and somehow that feeling makes it all seem good...

As his last preparation for prom, Steve Potoker orders a stunning orchid from Mrs. Pantelakis of Sheridan Florists.

In their quest for self-identity, Humanities students explore contemporary enigmas from the 'teeny-bopper' to the Negro.

Intently critical of their teammates' plays, the squad on the bench observes the Indians in action - improving morale and offering constructive criticism.

Surrounded by the past glories of athletic achievements, mascot Steve Cohen and Pom Pon girls assemble before Niles West's Wall of Fame.

Enthusiasm fills the grandstands as autumn breezes introduce the opening game of the football season.

Overtime games ending in ultimate victories, a promising junior named Mark Cartwright and a defeat over Maine South, highlighted an outstanding basketball season.

...when the ball is snapped, third down and goal-to goal, 21-17, eight seconds to go, and suddenly the indian quarterback plunges over the goal line to score the winning touchdown, the invincible individual gleans his glittering glory...the sporting star sparkles, bolstered on the backs of the humbler heroes fondling the field...the individual reigns in any sport--be it football or fencing, jogging or gymnastics, baseball or basketball...each man has his distinctive duty, each is an equal part of the persistently punching, united whole...for where would football be if no one poured the gatorade...

A special issue on drugs marks a first for the West Word staff as it experiments with theme issues.

After weeks of 'catchy' slogans and promotions, while defying the traditional student apathy, Jason Wolin and Karen Frankel pack carloads of "Bundles Day" donations for the Indians in Minnesota.

...what makes an ordinary event special...what makes a group of lukewarm bodies assembled after-hours in a classroom an activity...only the time and efforts of dynamic individuals...personalities...charismatic characters who stretch out a magnet hand and dare anyone to defy it...and no one does...individuals lead, shape, mold massed minds to paste petal paper, caress committees, dispense doughnuts...all action rests in the palm of the powerhouse...whether his niche is writing or rehearsing, painting or pompoming, each indian individual has amply nourished his needle to burst his bubble into being...

The Niles West 'image,' as representatives of the 1968 Homecoming Court, reflects in Georgia Bell, Denise Schroeder, Diane Wirkus, and Sharon Gray.

A season long schedule of rehearsals builds in confidence as concert time approaches.

Students, usually preoccupied with bubble gum and the latest fan mags, attempt maturity by sponsoring a "mock political" campaign.

Vocational skills allow students to express ideas in forms of wood and metal.

...individual underclassmen...one helpless freshman struggling, squirming to be something more than IBM number 62897...a bolster, a boost, a push and a prayer help him overcome matters of the moment, but self-assertion niles west style calls for a native vehicle more powerful than an earthquake--a dream...an individual dream which distinguishes 62897 from 45019 from 24738...pursued through the years, a dream is the freshman's, sophomore's and junior's only defense when IBM screams that he is the helpless prisoner of his auditorium seating assignment card...and he glances at his ID in the light...

Flowing strokes of India ink record mind expansions in blacks and whites.

Inquiry provokes the elevation of an arm, the wrinkle of a brow, and the numblings of a questioning mind.

Though disciplinary action is forthcoming, a rebel relaxes, creating fanciful excuses for his behavior.

Against the romantic backdrop of the Niles West courtyard, underclassmen discuss plans for Saturday night.

..in their quest for knowledge, sneakers often need the guidance of experienced sneakers who have traced all the steps before...their cares and concerns make a seeking sneaker comfortable-he can bare his sole to someone who lets his wandering tongue flap freely...who can better respond to the rape of a sneaker's inner sole than the one who tenderly taught psneaker psychology, and then smiled--i'm not a monster, only a sneaker like the rest of you-just made of rubber and canvas and i'm bound together with a reknotted shoelace--my toes are grass-stained, too, if you'd only come close enough to look...and even though a sneaker leaves a class about the same length as he entered, somehow he feels he's grown...funny-big sneakers can affect you that way...

BOARD OF EDUCATION:

BOARD DETERMINES SCHOOL POLICY 68-69

Seven board members, elected to serve the district for three/year terms, meet once a week to discuss, evaluate and decide on crucial issues emerging during the school year. Planning the budget and hiring personnel are only two of the important tasks resting upon the judgment of the Board of Education for the Niles Schools.

MR. ANGELOS POULAKIDAS

MR. FRED LIFTON

MR. CHARLES SZUBERLA

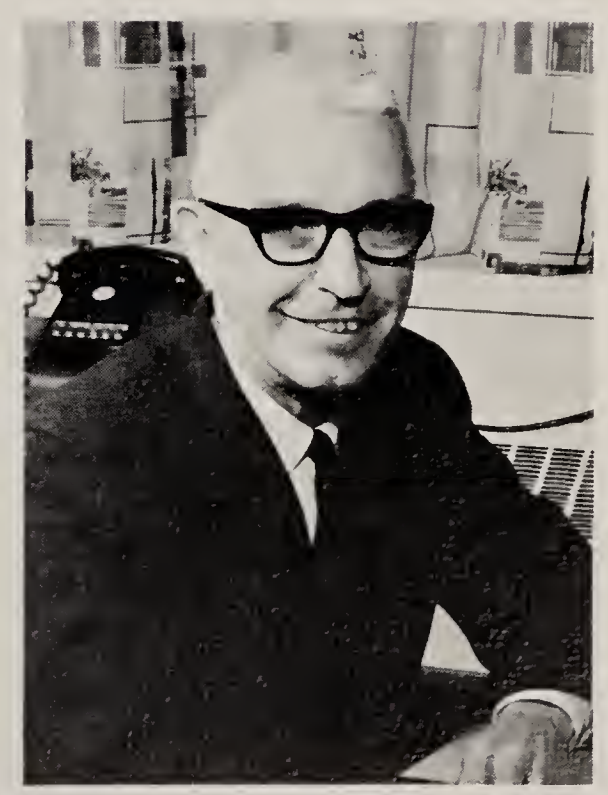
DR. MERTON HAYNES

MR. JOHN BRISTOL

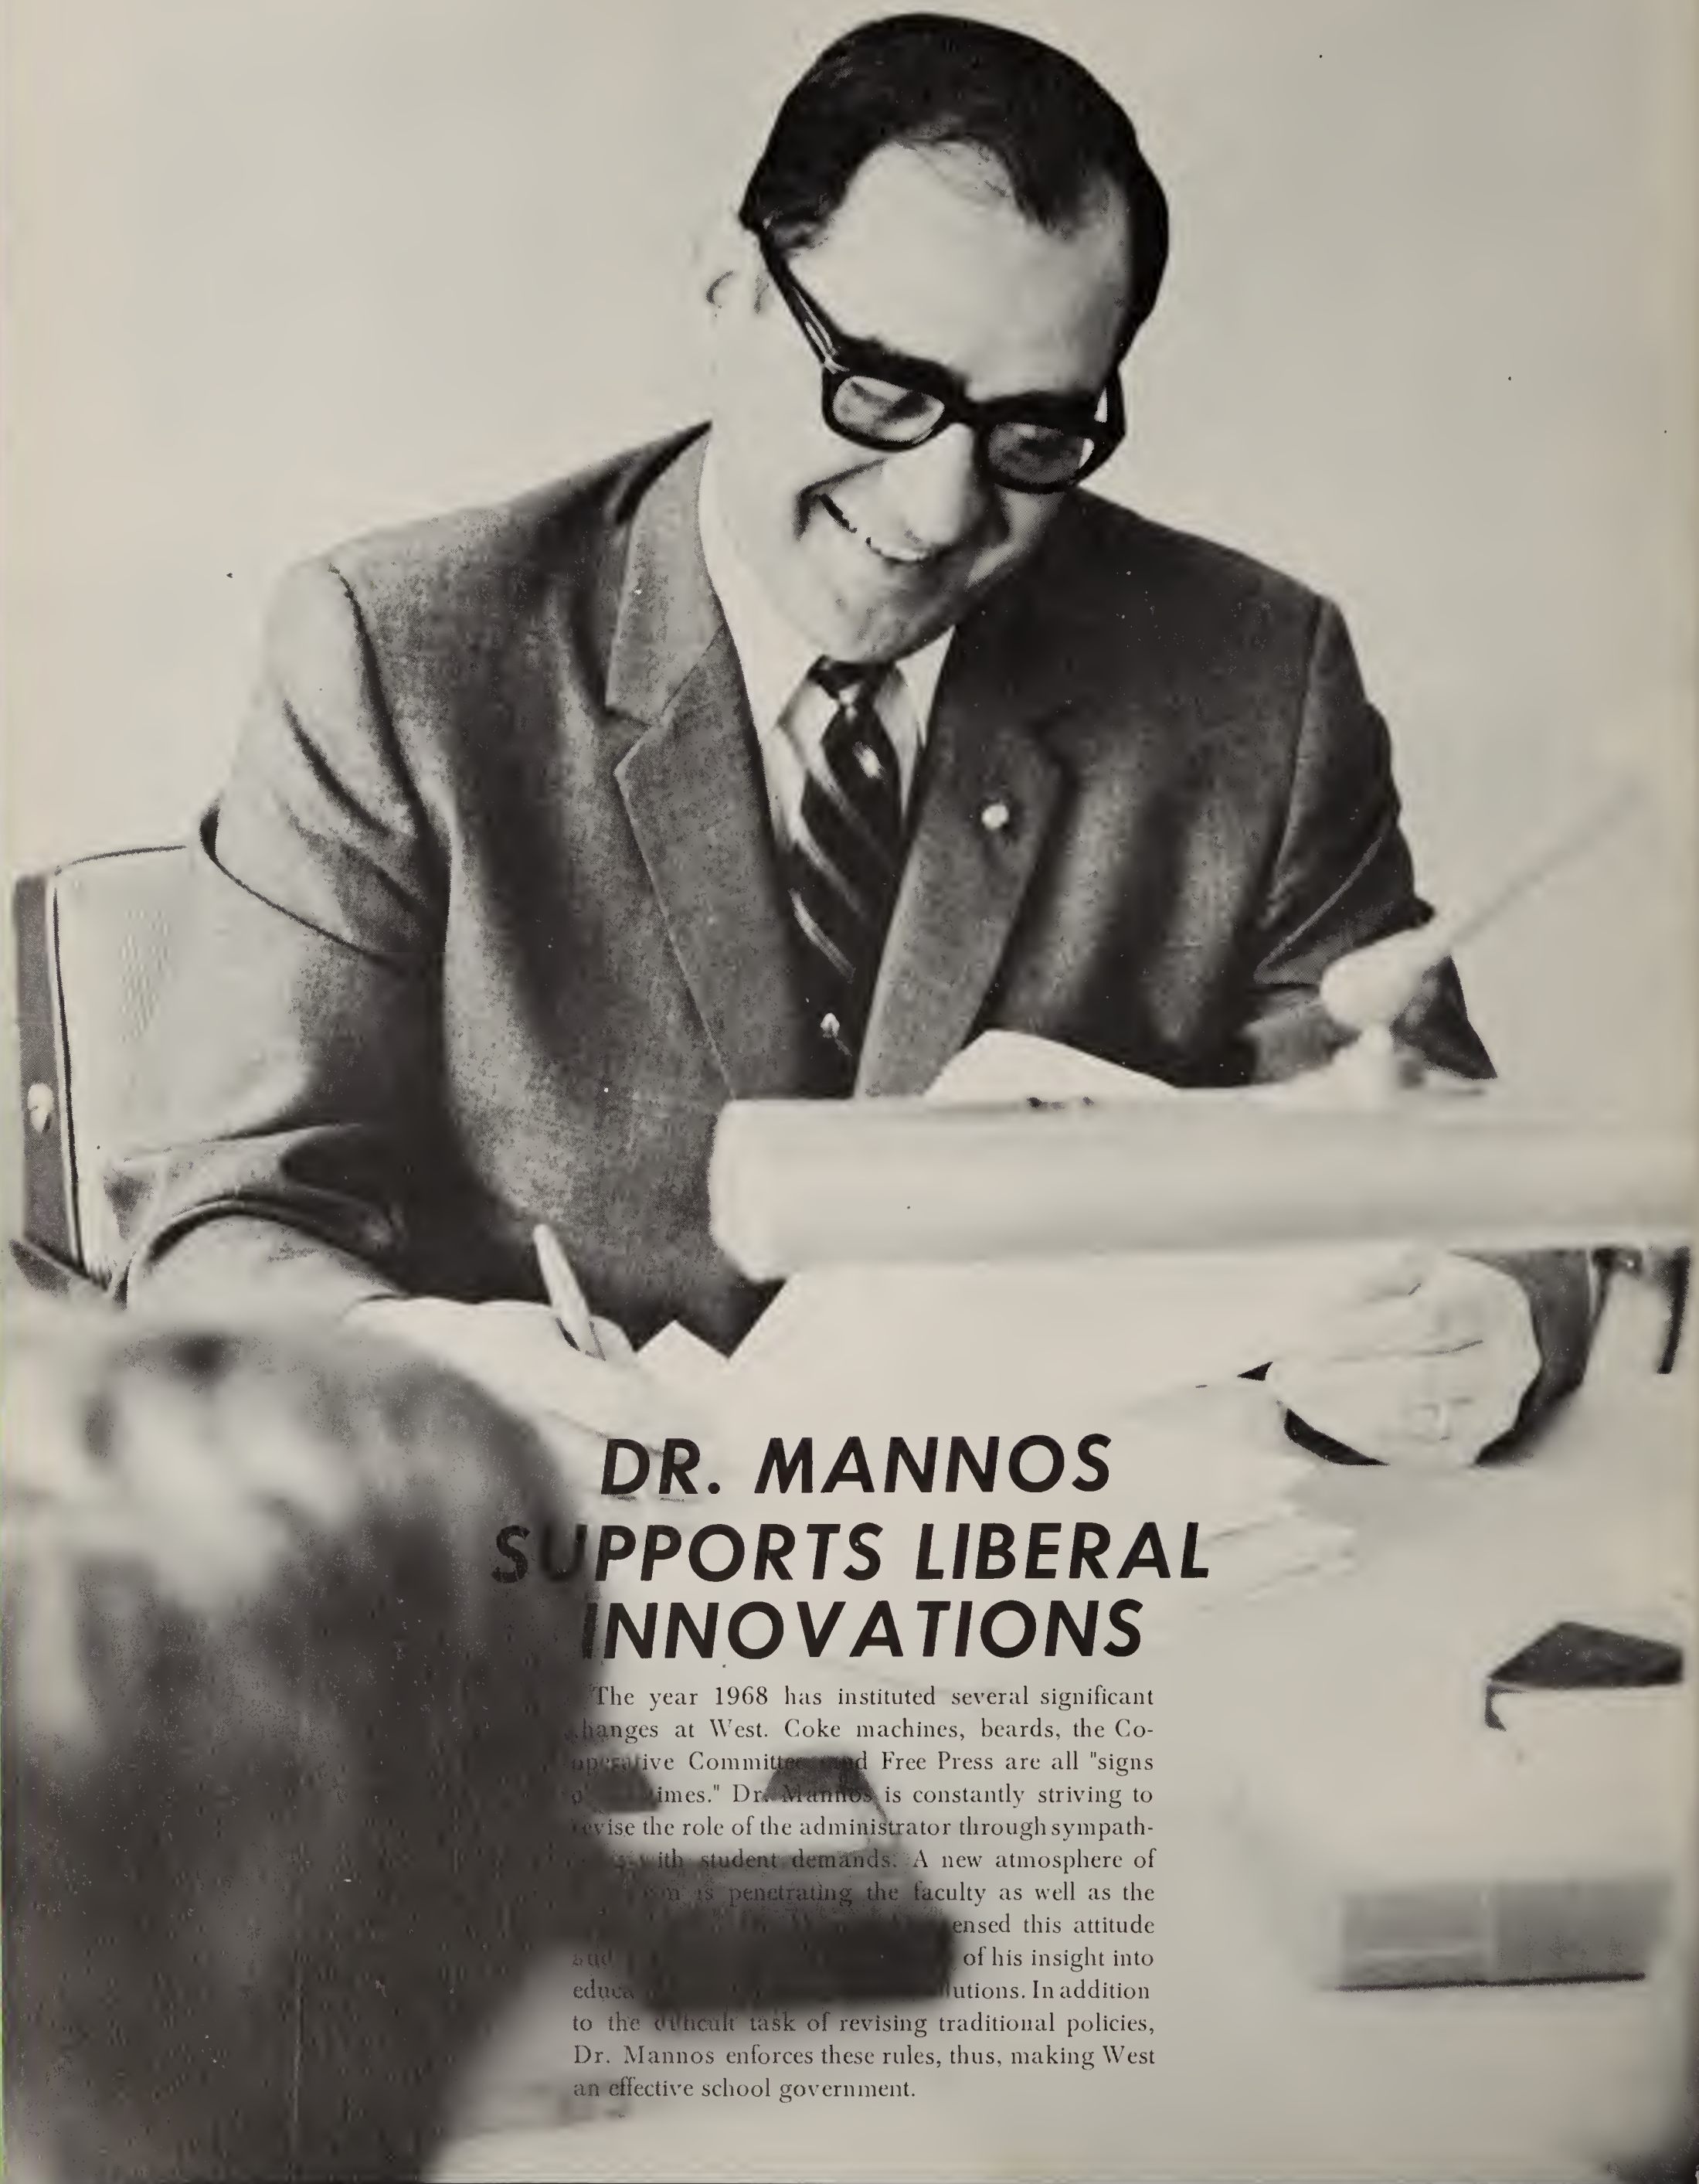
ADMINISTRATION:

"BIG BROTHER" - FRIEND OR FOE?

Although the administration often is associated with the image of "Big Brother" — hovering over the innocent youth — one ought to examine the tremendous task they try to fulfill. In a society such as our own, opinions are extremely diverse and equally difficult to represent by a single reflection. The administration is not only concerned with the taxpayer's budget, but strives to maintain an open communication line with students. They do not wish to inhibit a student's creativity, but they must keep a "watchful eye" so as to avoid conflict with parents or faculty. Annually the burdens become more strenous, due to increasing enrollment, shortage of building facilities and continually changing social opinions. Thus, the board must consider each proposal with an objective viewpoint coinsiding with the philosophies of contemporary educators.



MR. RAY TYLER



DR. MANNOS SUPPORTS LIBERAL INNOVATIONS

The year 1968 has instituted several significant changes at West. Coke machines, beards, the Co-operative Committee and Free Press are all "signs of the times." Dr. Mannos is constantly striving to revise the role of the administrator through sympathy with student demands. A new atmosphere of [illegible] is penetrating the faculty as well as the [illegible] ensed this attitude [illegible] of his insight into educa[illegible]utions. In addition to the difficult task of revising traditional policies, Dr. Mannos enforces these rules, thus, making West an effective school government.

ASSISTANT PRINCIPALS:

INDEPENDENT STUDY ADOPTED ON JUNIOR AND SENIOR LEVELS

In conjunction with Dr. Mannos, the four class level administrators at West work to establish meaningful school policies and successful operating procedures. Freshman Principal, Mr. Orland Ruyle, also in charge of Student Accounting has attained a smooth-running, efficient means of establishing school attendance. Sophomore Principal responsible for textbook services, Mr. Dale Flick, initiated a new program of textbook distribution before the opening of school in the fall, while Mr. Peter Egan, Junior Principal and Director of Student Activities, conferred with Student Council on school problems. Mr. Thomas Schnepper, associated with guidance, assisted the senior class in their last year at West. Together, they try to achieve an educated student body, with a talented staff and significant curriculum.

ART:

STUDENTS VISIT ART INSTITUTE AND VIEW DADA EXHIBIT

Complementing the academic studies, art provides the creative student with instruction for his cutural endeavors. The Art Department comprises the areas of sculpturing, oil and water color painting, sketching, and modeling with different materials. All are intended to improve the student's talents, and heighten his awareness to imagination, creativity, and sensitivity.

To further develop the art student's abilities, field trips to the Art Institute, and to art exhibits are provided. The students' own compositions are displayed several times a year throughout the school, promoting excellent workmanship on the part of the originators, and cultural enjoyment for students and faculty.

MUSIC:

INCREASED PARTICIPATION EXPANDS MUSIC PROGRAMS

Intent on elevating the student's appreciation of music, the music department offers a wide variety of courses and extra-curricular activities, in both instrumental and vocal areas. Students further explore duet and solo work in their particular field of interest. For the extremely motivated student, private lessons are also available.

Music department members lend their talents to many musical-oriented productions offered at West. Tours are sponsored to the feeder junior high schools where performances are given in the choral and instrumental areas.

BUSINESS EDUCATION:

STUDENTS LEARN TO TYPE OPPOSITE LUNCH PERIODS

Preparing for the business world, supplementing a mathematics major, or merely learning to type an English theme, are all reasons why the Niles student elects a course in Business Education. Courses such as shorthand, typing, bookkeeping or data processing are all designed specifically to meet the needs of the high school student in his daily work and to provide him with the tools to reach future goals.

New developments in business machines and techniques of study are adopted, informing the student of contemporary business advancements. Typing and other courses are also available to the student during half-hour study halls. The department relates the student's business education to other aspects of his knowledge to develop an intelligent, well-rounded person.

ENGLISH:

INDEPENDENT STUDY PROVIDES SPECIALIZATION

The English Department, aware that communication through both the written word and speech is essential to the individual in all pursuits, has expanded its program and staff. Encompassing the areas of literature, composition, drama, speech and journalism, the department offers exploration in a variety of directions.

Greater involvement in courses is achieved by application of the student's knowledge. While studying Greek tragedy, English classes proceeded downtown to view a Greek play. Shakespeare enthusiasts visited the film "Romeo and Juliet." For those devoted to literature and its interpretation, various lectures at the University of Chicago were presented.

Intense concentration in a specific subject is also available in the English Department. Independent study may be elected by the student who desires to learn on a one-to-one basis with his instructor, and workshops are offered for informal study in a chosen area. All aspects of the department help produce a student capable of self-expression.

FOREIGN LANGUAGE:

NEW EQUIPMENT MODERNIZES LANGUAGE LAB

Mastery of one's own language is basic to the educated student, but knowledge of other languages and cultures is useful in increasing subtlety of thought and analysis. Thus, the Niles Foreign Language Department offers a variety of courses in Spanish, French, Latin, German, and Russian, to increase the student's skills of reading, speaking, writing and listening comprehension.

In the classroom, students are introduced to the grammatical structure of their language, while inspecting the culture and customs of the people from which it is derived. During extra-curricular activities, the student may hear a French singer, see a German film, or read modern Russian verse, all increasing proficiency in the language and in the knowledge of its people.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS:

TALENT DISPLAYED IN WOODS AND METALS

Dexterity while working with woods and metals, and understanding of the intricacies of machines are vital to a boy's completion of an all-around education. The Industrial Arts program is designed to expand manual skills, while offering insight into the operation and use of machines.

Various displays of student experiments during class are exhibited near the Industrial Arts rooms, indicating the practicability of department courses, and the enjoyment derived from them.

HOME ARTS:

HOMEMAKING SKILLS EMPHASIZED

For the girl planning a future home or a career in home economics, a thorough background in the study of cooking, sewing, home management and child care is a valuable asset. With the modern facilities of the Home Arts Department, proficient skills may be developed in all of these areas.

Students in the department demonstrate their talents in various forms. Food classes baked plates of cookies for children at Cook County Hospital during the Christmas season. This and other activities confirm both the practical and aesthetic value of knowledge received in the Home Arts Department.

MATHEMATICS:

NEW COMPUTER DETERMINES FISCAL FITNESS

In the highly mechanized society of today, mathematical knowledge is becoming increasingly vital. Courses of algebra, geometry, trigonometry and calculus designed at four different levels cater to the needs of each individual at Niles West.

A recent addition to the Math Department is a computer, for which classes have been formed both before and during school. The new computer serves a dual purpose: not only is it utilized for pure mathematics, but it is also mobilized to solve the arithmetic problems of other departments in the school. Creative writing magazine Apotheosis averaged manuscript scores with the help of the computer, and the physical education department ascertained physical fitness rates with its use.

By expanding its staff, equipment and curriculum the Math Department continues to challenge students with the theories and riddles of the mathematical world.

The constantly changing technological world of today demands of its participants the ability to grow and learn with its scientific advancements. By providing a sound background in biology, physics and chemistry, plus the opportunity for experimentation, the Science Department produces many students able to compete in the scientific world.

Participation in science exhibits allows the individual to develop his own interests in a specific field of study, while supplementing his classroom education.

SOCIAL STUDIES:

RUSSIAN STUDIES ARE ADDED TO CURRICULUM

If world harmony is to be achieved, knowledge of the past, of different cultures, and of man himself is essential to each student's education. By becoming familiar with the problems and conflicts of man in the past, and the analysis of the individual in social studies courses such as American, Non-Western and European History, psychology and sociology, the West student will be able to cope with friction between men.

Realizing the importance of physical fitness, the Boy's Physical Education Department serves to emphasize its practice. A carefully selected program of exercise combined with athletic skills result in well-coordinated boys. Extra-curricular activities complement the daily schedule, and provoke enthusiasm for sports and health. The addition of more faculty members has facilitated a closer student-teacher relationship, allowing for accelerated fields of exploration.

GIRL'S PHYSICAL EDUCATION:

ELECTIVE SPORTS MEET INDIVIDUAL NEEDS

Realizing that excellent physical health is an important factor in the intellectual growth of students, the girl's physical education department offers a wide curriculum of sports. Group sports such as baseball, volleyball and basketball increase the girl's proficiency in teamwork, while individual activities including modern dance and swimming help improve personal skills.

Initiated in the early spring was a program of elective gym, where the girls are able to select those activities which they would most prefer to work in during their gym period. For those students with a great interest in athletics, the Girl's Athletic Association offers after school intra and interscholastic sports activities.

GUIDANCE:

DIRECTIONS FOR HIGH SCHOOL AND THE FUTURE

Ready to help with schedule conflicts, a poor course choice or a college decision, the Guidance Department steers each student throughout the high school career. The counselor helps the student to realize his own capabilities, his personal goals, and how to best achieve his desires.

Guidance for post-high school plans is integral to the counseling program. College representatives constantly visit West, informing the students of the vast selection of schools throughout the country, while seminars are held which acquaint students with job opportunities.

DRIVER EDUCATION:

DRIVERS ASSIST CLUBS DURING CLASSES

The state recently passed a law requiring driver education of all persons under eighteen when applying for a driver's license. As a result, the role of the Driver Education Department in training students to become responsible, safe drivers steadily increases in importance.

To achieve the maximum skill in driving techniques in the minimum amount of time, the department has developed a program comprised of three areas: classroom study, drivo-trainer, and behind-the-wheel. The student thus learns driving procedures first in theory, then is able to test his ability in the classroom while under simulated road conditions, and ultimately applies practical skills while driving with a Driver Education instructor.

The motorcycle, which is seen more often on streets and highways today, is also present in the classroom at West. Study of its mechanical structure and operation is offered to all students. Knowledge of several different motor vehicles increases the student's ability to become a successful driver.

older, perhaps wiser for experience, senior sneakers hold the future . . . their bounding leaps at niles west have assured them that should they ever have to clear five feet two again they won't have much trouble . . . ripeness swells their pride . . . their holes, ragged edges, hastily-executed embellishments are merely markers of time which complement the sneaker by confirming its individuality . . . it has been a longshort bittersweet life in the locker which will soon host a new naive white innocent . . . senior sneakers never fade . . . how could they when identity has newly emerged from the swellings in the toes . . . an aurora of confidence fills a senior sneaker as the majesty of the locker room engulfs it . . . it takes one last fleeting glance and moves on . . .

SENIORS

President David Drew leads a discussion on everything from involement in the Homecoming Parade to projects concerning the community.

Involvement: The Key to Class of '69 Success

Reflecting on the last four years, questioning and change have guided the cabinets of the Class '69. Not soley concerned with themselves, they have contributed to the school as well as to the surrounding communities. They have initated programs to prepare future graduates for what they may encounter in the upcoming years. Among others "Speak Out," the Biagra Campaign, and College Night exemplified these attempts. The cabinets of the Class of '69 have set a precedent for the classes in the years to come.

Following a controversial suggestion proposed by a representative, mixed reactions and a heated discussion ensues as cabinet members debate the issues.

the shinywhiteness of freshman sneakers capturers a stream of sunlight falling into an otherwise sulky locker room . . . freshman sneakers mass jump in puddles, romp in snowmountains, see life in native white harmony, touch tongues eagerly, tangle laces together . . . sophomore sneakers still jump but have forgotten how to find the puddles . . . they splash anyone and everyone and even each other eaching for the mud and holes and telltale grass stains that only come with age . . . junior sneakers are almost ripe, the greenness only to mellow and sweeten . . . laces are tied, but will be retied again and again as time sweeps them toward semi-hidden puddles and mountains which never seeped through the embryonic holes before . . . sneakers may hesitate but ultimately plunge in.

UNDERCLASSMEN

THE FROSH CONFORM!

After graduating from the confines of grammar school, the freshman class of '72 spent a successful year at West. While adapting to the new high school environment, freshmen selected their cabinet and officers. Soon after the first day of school, however, the freshmen frantically joined in the activities of school dances, after games, doughnut sales and charity drives. Amidst an atmosphere of turbulence, frosh have slightly matured to accept their forthcoming roles as sophomores.

President Jim Hornthal intently concentrates on the reactions of his peers when confronted with the horrifying suggestion of cabinet elimination.

Making her contribution to Homecoming, Inez Zabin offers her home to the float committee.

Apprehensively, cabinet members await voting results of officers.

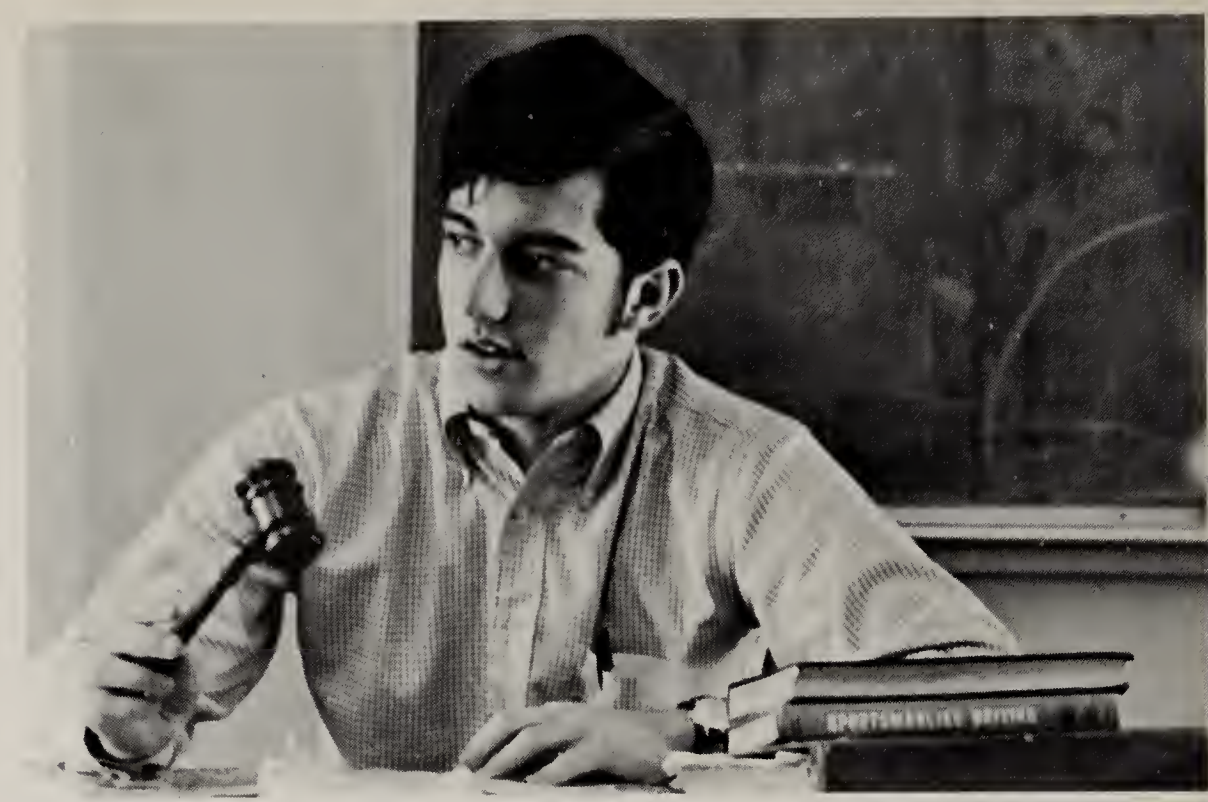
WEST GOBBLES SOPHOMORE SPONSORED BREAKFASTS



Wielding his authority, President Jimmy Gassel approves the lox and bagels sale for the "Eat Your Heart Out" breakfast.

Charged with super school spirit, Sophomore Cabinet proceeded to hold countless candy sales, create buttons bolstering the West teams, and collect needed funds for both Biafra and the Crusade of Mercy. To further the cause of the sophomore treasury, the cabinet celebrated St. Valentine's day with an "Eat Your Heart Out" breakfast. Participation in the activities of Sophomore Cabinet was always welcomed, and the sophomores concluded their year with a well-stuffed student body and treasury.

A typical example of enthusiasm is displayed by members as a new motion is being discussed.

Frustrated Cabinet members give up in despair as they project another proposal for a design of class buttons.

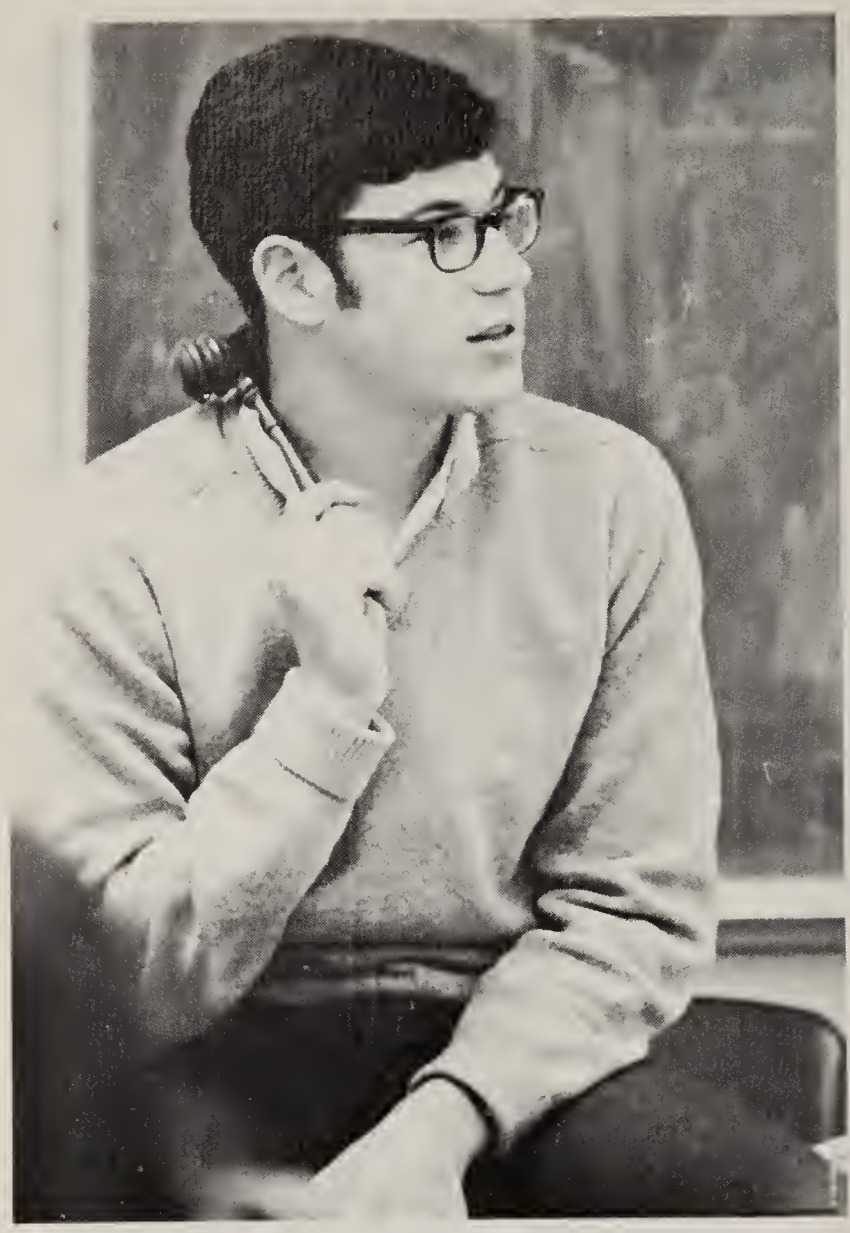
Barney Weitzman is lost in his own world of music.



President Mike Wiser considers one of the numerous, often corny and highly amusing suggestions to title Prom '69.

JUNIORS PREPARE FOR PROM '69

The Junior Cabinet, class of 1970, spent a hectic, but rewarding year. Daily meeting sessions held discussions on what size pennants to sell at basketball games, how much candy to buy for after school sales, and where prom should be held. Although the juniors were concerned with acquiring as much money as possible for an elegant prom, they still participated in the Crusade of Mercy drives, the Biafra auction, and helped collect for the Mark Topol Fund.

Overlooking weekly minutes, Barbara Parker and Sue Chaplik are amazed at the shallow trivia, which consumes so many half-hours.

SPECIAL EVENTS

NATASHA AND BORIS HOMECOMING '68

Student Council wildly crosses the gym during the Homecoming assembly as the students and faculty giggle at their ridiculous Laugh-In skits.

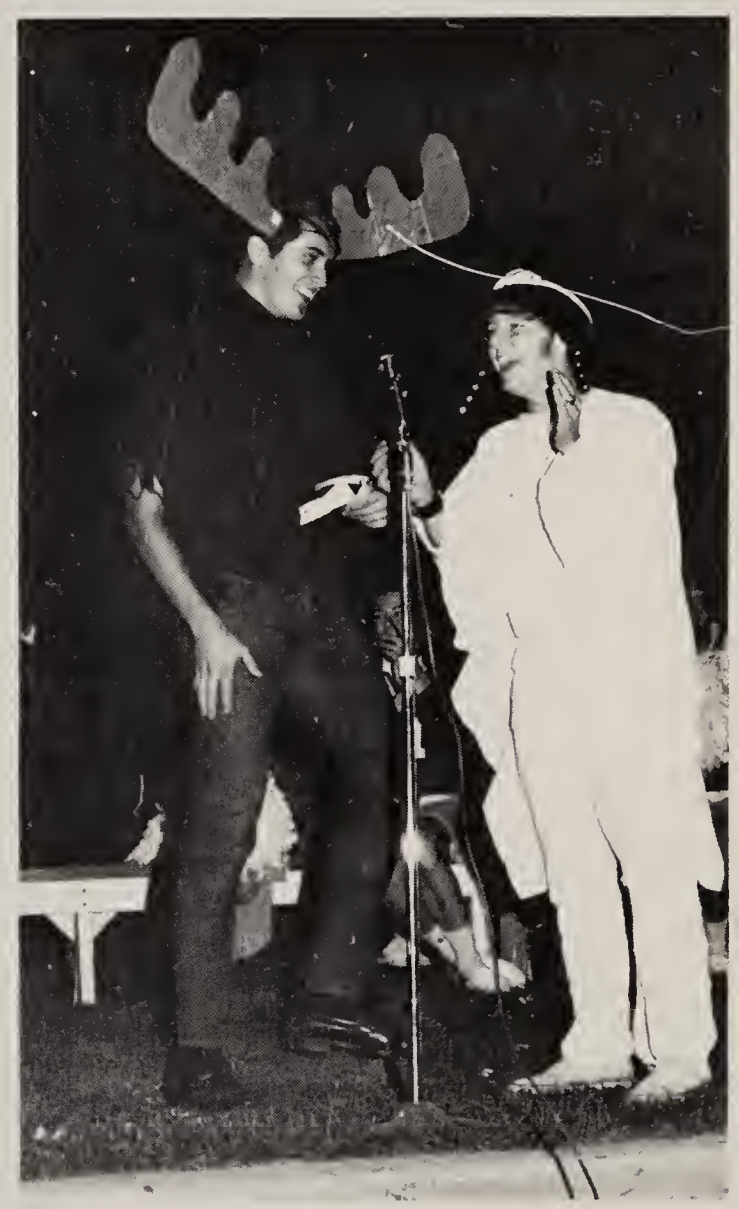
Spectators watching the parade laugh at the grinning Indian atop the Student Council float, which was followed by a carful of Pow-Wow clowns.

PLOT AGAINST

Will Natasha and Boris steal Niles West school spirit? Will Rocky and Bullwinkle be able to protect their team and lead them to a Homecoming victory? Fearful thoughts plagued the hearts of all students as Homecoming '68 began. Throughout the entire Homecoming week, various clubs slaved on their floats. The Homecoming Committee frantically checked last minute details. The Indian team perfected its playing techniques, so that "This Time for Sure" Niles West would be victorious. The school selected its Homecoming queen and court at the Friday night Pep Rally, while instilling the 'will to kill' into each Indian team member. Saturday morning, everyone awakened early to view the Homecoming parade, equipped with Pom-Pon girls, gorgeous floats, marching band, and Pow-Wow clowns. Slowly winding through the streets of neighboring suburbs, the parade finally returned to home territory, where the big event of the day awaited: the football game.

Steve Cohen, mascot of the powerful Indian team, leads the parade for Homecoming '68 through the crowded streets of downtown Skokie.

Anticipating Dr. Mannos's announcement of the Homecoming Queen, Steven Cohen grasps the torch to ignite the bonfire.



At the Twilight Pep Rally, Rocky and Bullwinkle, alias Wayne Chubin and Bob Cashatt, perform the last act of the Homecoming skit.

Turning down Oakton, marching Pom-Pon girls present an exciting routine to encourage school spirit.

Indian mascot, Steve Cohen, leads the players through the teepee to an exciting victory.

"THIS TIME FOR SURE" --- AN INDIAN VICTORY!

The efforts of everyone were rewarded when Niles West won the football game. Defying history, the Indians massacred the Cowboys, achieving a score of 36 to 0. Delighted spectators cheered Rocky and Bullwinkle as they dispelled the evil Natasha and Boris, and left the carcasses of Cowboys to rot in the football field.

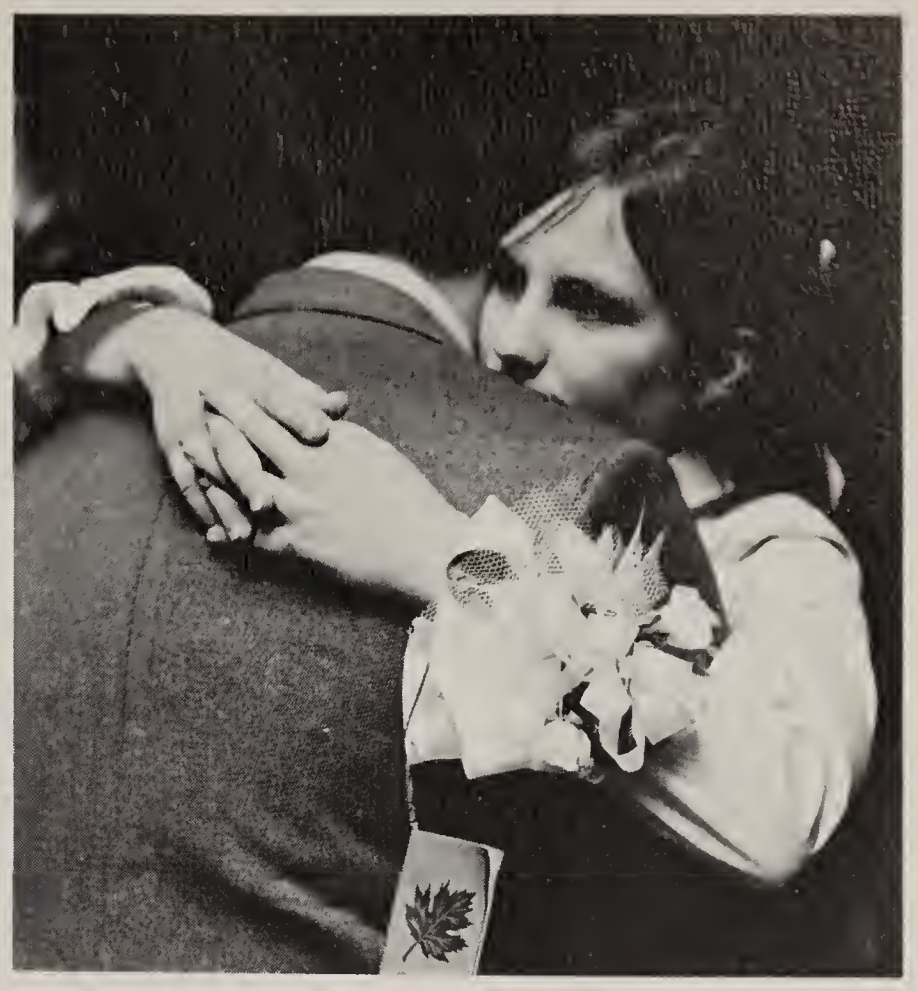
The remainder of the afternoon, the Indians prepared for their victory Homecoming dance. Still elated over their achievements of the afternoon, couples happily appluaded the presentation of the Homecoming Court, followed by the coronation of the Queen. "Autumn Leaves "serenely ended the wonderful week of Homecoming '68.

Maneuvering through their intricate plays, the Indians fiercely massacre the New Trier Cowboys.

At the Homecoming Pep Rally, Coach Basrak encourages the student body to increase school spirit, and that "This Time for Sure" the team will triumph at Homecoming.

An exuberant gathering of Niles West spectators applaud as the Indians sweep a 36 to 0 victory.

Cubminating an eventful weekend, "Autumn Leaves" permits couples to reminisce as they whisper 'sweet nothings'.



At the Homecoming dance, "Autumn Leaves," Roberta Shall dreamily waltzes to the wistful music of the Rat Pack.

Lively Homecoming Court members Karen Diakoumis, Sharon Gray, Queen Diane Wirkus, Georgia Bell and Denise Schroeder beam radiantly for their admirers.

Highlighting Homecoming '68, Senior Class President, David Drew, places the crown upon the vivacious queen, Diane Wirkus.

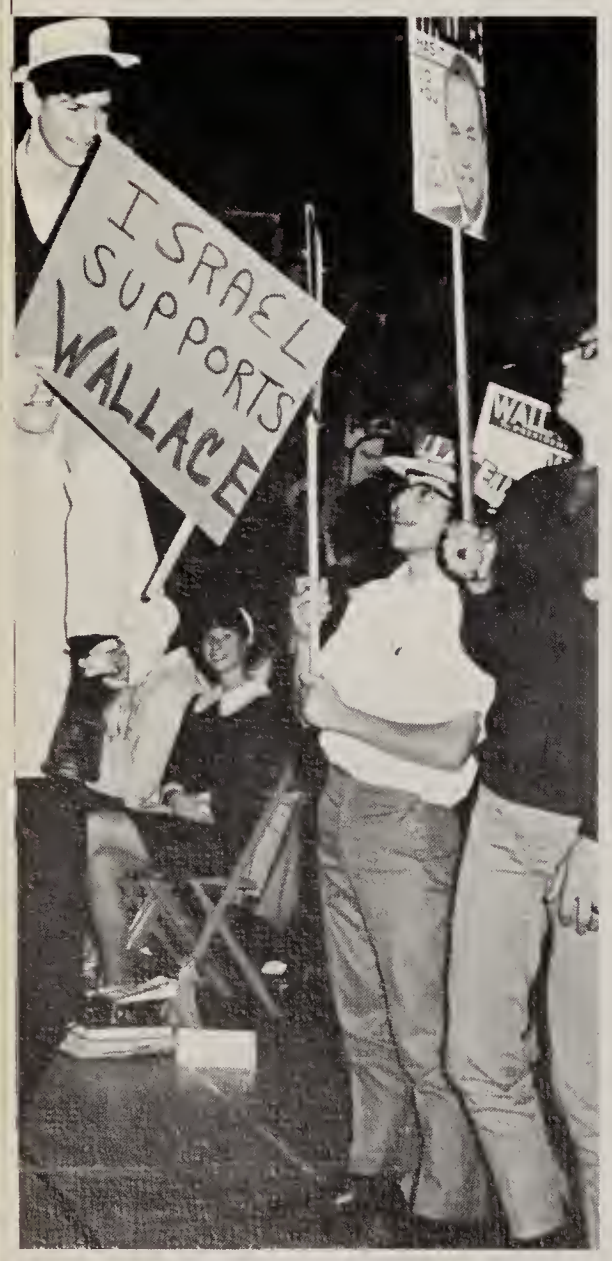
In preparation for the Mock Political Election assembly, Mr. Lawler labors on his candidate's poster.

MOCK POLITICAL ELECTION:

HUMPHREY OVERWHELMS NIXON AT WEST

While Richard Nixon, Hubert Humphrey, and George Wallace campaigned throughout the country in the 1968 presidential election, the West student body, in an attempt to simulate the American democratic process, participated in a Mock Political Election. Activities in the week long campaign included forums offered during study hall periods and daily newspapers explicating the views of the candidates on national and international affairs. Highlighting the campaign events was an assembly where each of the student representatives of the candidates issued his platform while demonstrations were held on the convention floor. Humphrey emerged the victor, along with a list of liberal Democratic senators and representatives. Although the election results did not coincide with the national outcome, the simulation proved an excellent experience in political participation.

Students campaigning on the floor grin at a sign stating "Israel supports Wallace."



As Bert Herbstman, representing Humphrey, rises to speak, the Humphrey - Muskie delegation applauds.

Ably representing presidential candidate George Wallace, Steve Ellwing vehemently expounds the views of the conservative right.

The Nixon-Agnew delegation cheers David Springer as the student representative for Nixon returns to his followers after a dynamic presentation.

Although no speaker represented their candidate, faithful Gene McCarthy followers still wave their posters in perdurable support.

After days of preparation, rehearsal, and speech-giving, the last remains of the Mock Political Election Assembly lie in heaps upon emptied chairs and gymnasium floors.

WHAT IF "WHAT

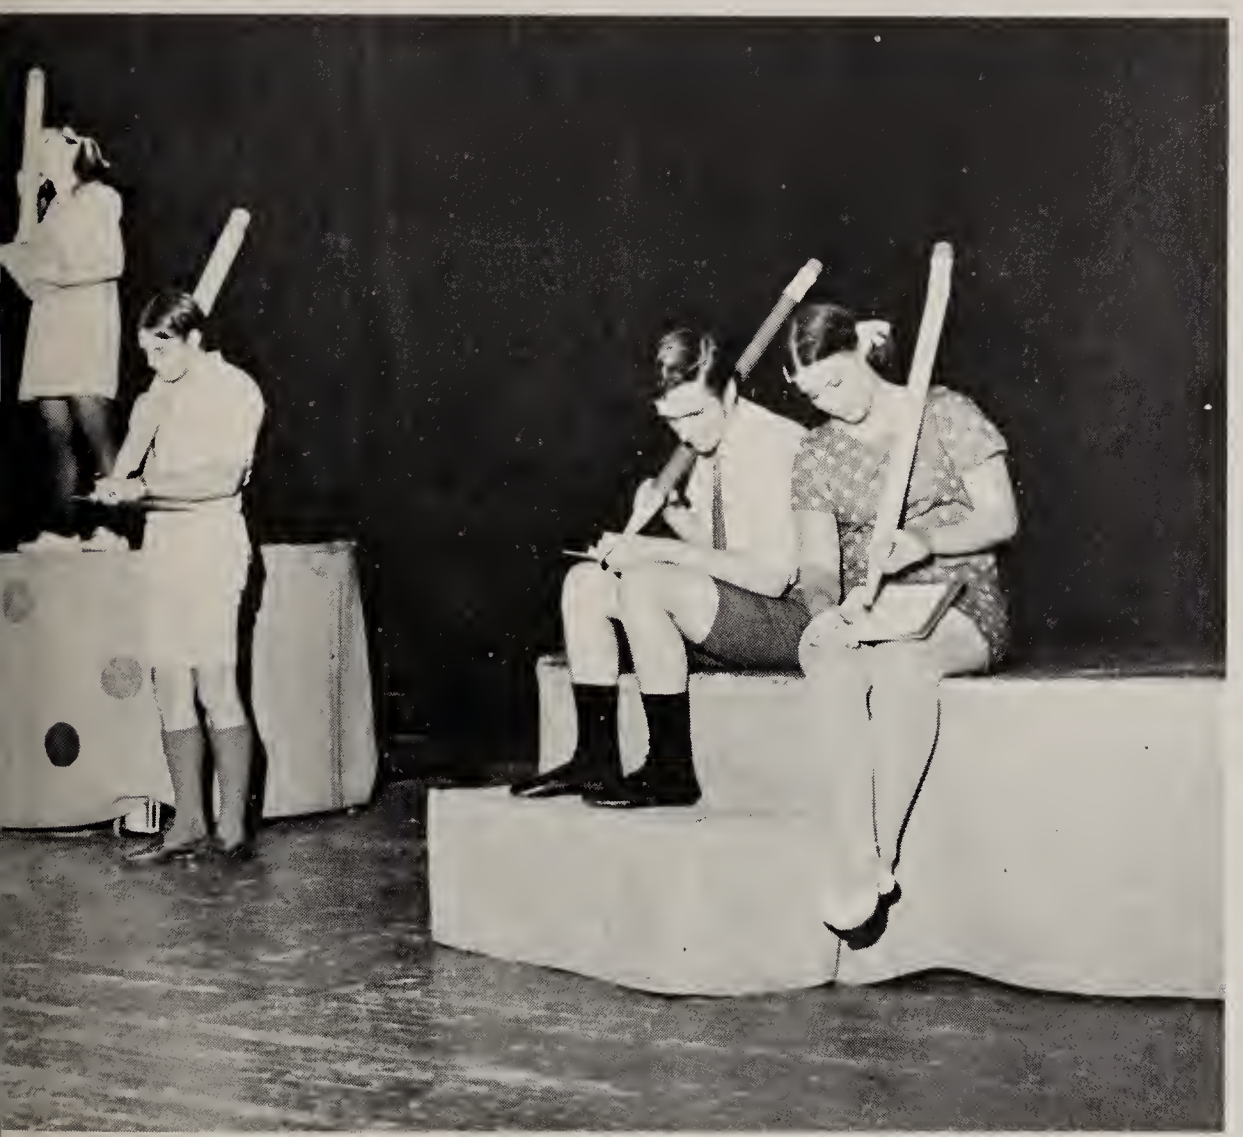
"I Taught Him Everything He Knows," lead Jill Eisenberg tells the audience, as she gleefully pinches chubby Jason Wolin's cheeks.

"What if We Could Talk to the Animals' sing dectet members, dressed in their animal finery.

IF" COULD BE!

Pow-Wow '68 Steering Committee, intent on expanding the imaginations of its audience, developed the title and theme song, "What If?" Blanche and Ralph, a suburban couple, come to view their son Ralphie in this year's Pow-Wow. Blanche drags Ralph unwillingly through the audience to their seats on stage. Henpecked Ralph slips into his seat, falls asleep, and dreams an intricate tale of drama, comedy, and slap-stick. Finally telling off loud-mouthed Blanche near the end of the show, Ralph awakens, only to realize his wife is still sitting beside him. Ralph is thus destined to remain with the obnoxious Blanche, but the audience empathizes with underdog Ralph, allowing him to make the final comment, "Actually, I enjoyed the show."

Leslie Kaplan, Laurie Brandt, and Randi Mirsky interpret "If I Had A Hammer" and "Rock My Soul."



"What If We Were First Graders" muse these industrious students, as they prepare their most recent assignment, a book report on Peter Rabbit.

Chris Mueller expresses her impression of western breezes in "What if the Wind Came Alive?"

Tim Tobias conducts the Pow-Wow '68 band, providing the musical score for the show.

Debbie Muth and big blue frog, Pam Goldberg, question the possibilities of mixed marriage in "What If I Married A Big Blue Frog?"

"SHORT BUT SWEET..

Bouncing animals and dectet members sing the last notes to the finale number "What If."

Bonnie Hausman and Jeanie Schiller sing of the joys and woes of their lines as maids in "What If Out Friends Could See Us Now?"

Disturbed at the loss of their homeroom at a pep assembly, eight freshmen girls dwell on the great possibilities of "What If We Were Seniors?"

--- POW-WOW '68

To develop its imaginative theme, Pow-Wow Steering Committee created countless innovations in the student directed, written, produced, and performed Pow-Wow. A double dectet, comprised of singers, dancers, and black-out actors was selected, along with ten "What If" acts, to produce the shortest Pow-Wow in Niles West history. Other "firsts" included the elimination of competition between acts, removal of the traditional overture, and the addition of audience-participation acts and production numbers. What if "What If?" succeeded? Smiles on cast, crews, and audience conclude that Pow-Wow '68 "What If?" was definitely victorious.

Pondering the perlexing question of "What If Bananas Really Pelled?" four bananas 'bump' and 'grind' across the Pow-Wow ramp to the sexy music of "The Stripper."

As they dance and hop across the stage, 14 little girls dream of "What If There Were A Magic Day?"

WINNIE-THE-POOH PROVIDES

After having eaten a tremendous meal of honey, Ellen Lieberman, as Mother Rabbit, pulls with all her strength to dislodge poor Pooh (alias David Kaplan) from her doorway.

Winnie-the-Pooh excitedly listens to a story about Himself, told to him by his friend Jim Hornthal as Christopher Robin.

Although firmly held by the bath-giving hands of Kanga, played by Helaine Bernstein, Andi Kitchen, as Piglet still tries to escape the dreaded soap and water.

Quite happy that their Pooh bear is once again safe and sound, the cast of Winnie-the-Pooh gaily warbles the finale.

PROFOUND PLEASURE

By bringing storybook friends and dreams to life on the stage, Children's Theatre provides afternoons of delight for children of all ages. Sponsored by Directors Robert Johnson and Molly Magee, the acting troupe produces two shows on Saturday afternoon, with cookies and punch afterwards.

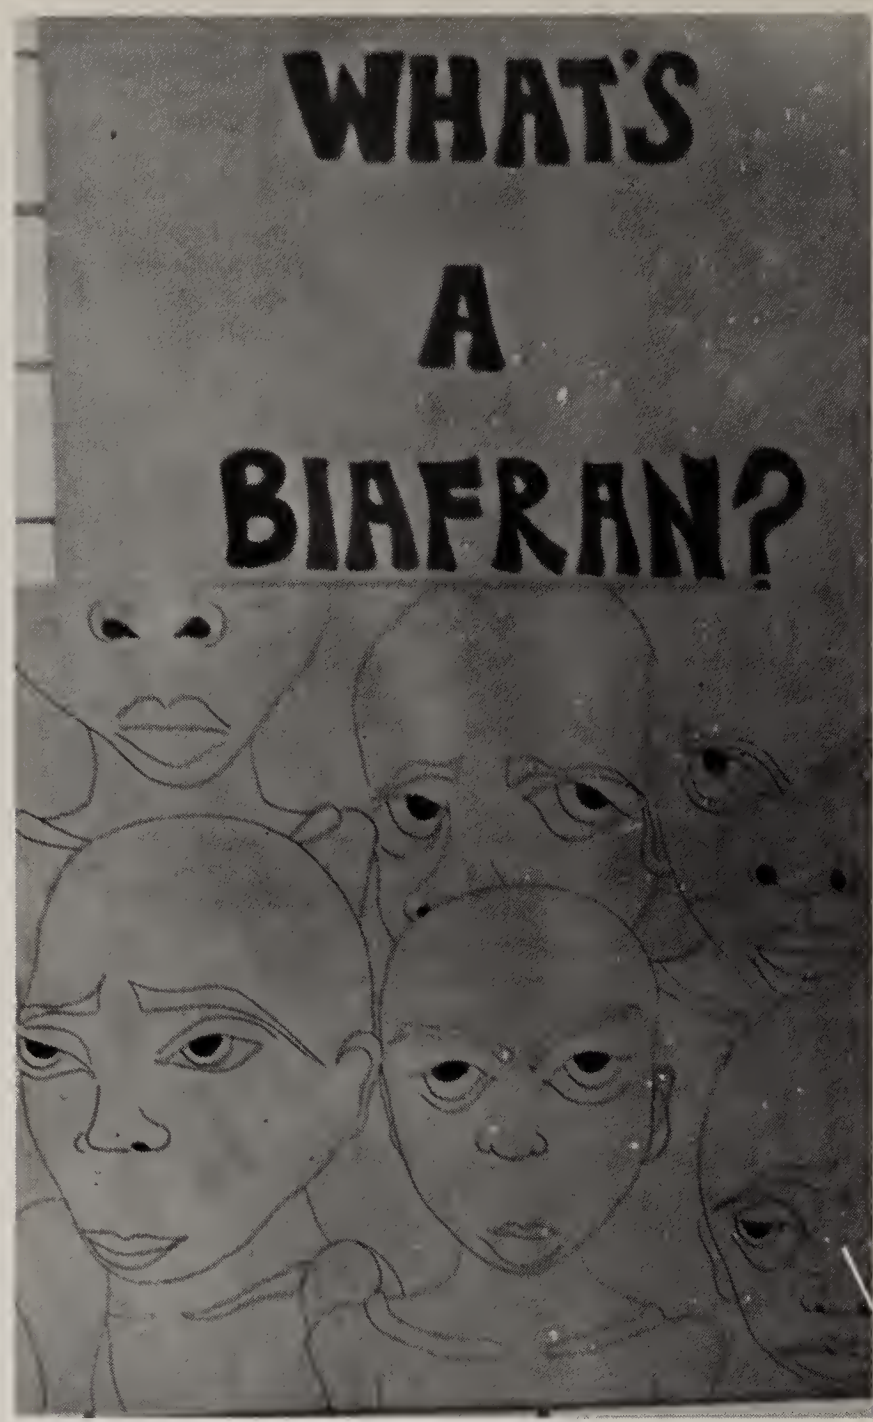
"Winnie-the-Pooh" started Children's Theatre this year with a delightful success. Expanded creativity with costuming, make-up and scenery allowed Pooh bear and a multitude of his friends to entertain in the bag lunchroom. The vast imaginations of children plus the talents of all involved provided a memorable experience for both audience and cast.

While hiding by an old tree, little rabbits Terry Spies and Linda Levine watch Pooh stealing honey from bumble bees.

Snarling with all the might of a mother, Kanga forces Dale Rosen, her son Roo, to take his medicine extract, as the other animals of the forest look on in complete horror.

Displaying the power of super-animals, Pooh's friends finally manage to yank the fat bear out of Rabbit's house.

With a wide grin on her face, Ida Pakier proudly raises the hampster she has bought, complete with cage and wood shavings, for a mere fifteen dollars.



Students at West ask "What's a Biafran?" and upon learning from Elaine Segal's posters, they plan their Biafran Auction.

Auction participants wildly sacrifice their life savings for stuffed animals.

Hopeful that the student body will respond generously, Peggy Kaplan holds up The Thing, the next object to be sold.

WEST LEARNS TO "GIVE A DAMN" DURING BIAFRAN CRISIS

Pursuing the objective of an auction, Arts Club, as a non-profit organization, debated the goal of its drive. The crisis in Biafra was mentioned, and immediately Arts Club announced the arrival of a Biafran Auction. Students were urged to donate sellable merchandise, and plans began to mushroom. Senior Cabinet did extensive research concerning the political and economical situation in Biafra, and members served as "runners" during the aution. Teachers became involved by offering lunches at Booby's, carrying students' books, or providing chauffering services to and from school.

The efforts of all involved were well rewarded. The main floor of the auditorium was almost completely filled, and items were sold for three or four times their normal cost; one dinner for four cost $46! A total amount of $1,500 was procured and sent to Biafra, making the auction both an enjoyable and worthwhile activity for the entire school.

Yo-Yos that light up in the dark went for a dollar a piece, and Marilyn Roman begins to enjoy hers in the auditorium aisle.

Mr. Shove, Biafran Auctioneer, models the next item to be sold.

A team of four senior girls plus cabinet sponsor Mrs. Macala was needed to collect the sum of $1,500 spent at the auction, and write receipts.

FRESHMAN ENTHUSIAM BRINGS VICTORY

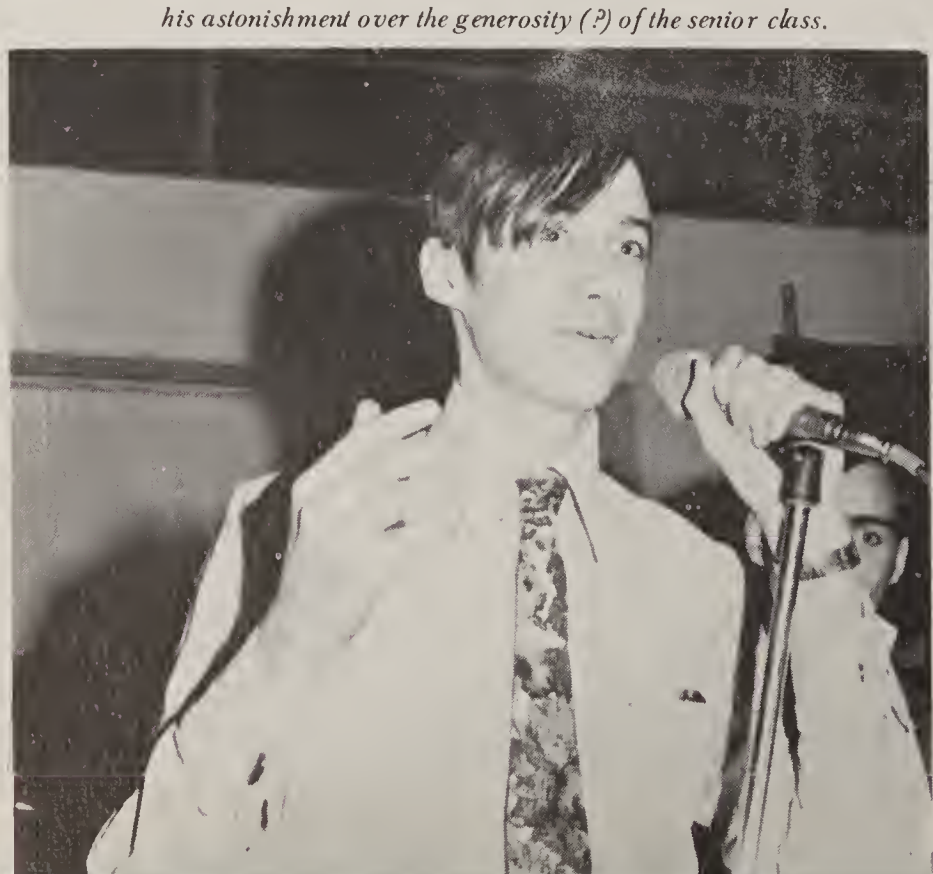
The traditional Niles West "Ugly Man Contest" appears to be on the way out. Profits from canning were consistent with those of previous years. Enthusiasm for the dance, however, revealed the mounting student disinterest. The novelty of "Ugly Man" has faded, illustrative of the need for a new approach to fund-raising.

Freshman Paul Klipowicz proudly boasts that he is the "Ugliest" at West.

Junior candidate, Rob Hirschtick, calmy dismisses the defeat and vows that his class "shall overcome."

Candidate Dan Goldman sincerely expresses his gratitude to the Sophomore class for their support.

The defeated Senior Ugly Man candidate, John Wulf, expresses his astonishment over the generosity (?) of the senior class.

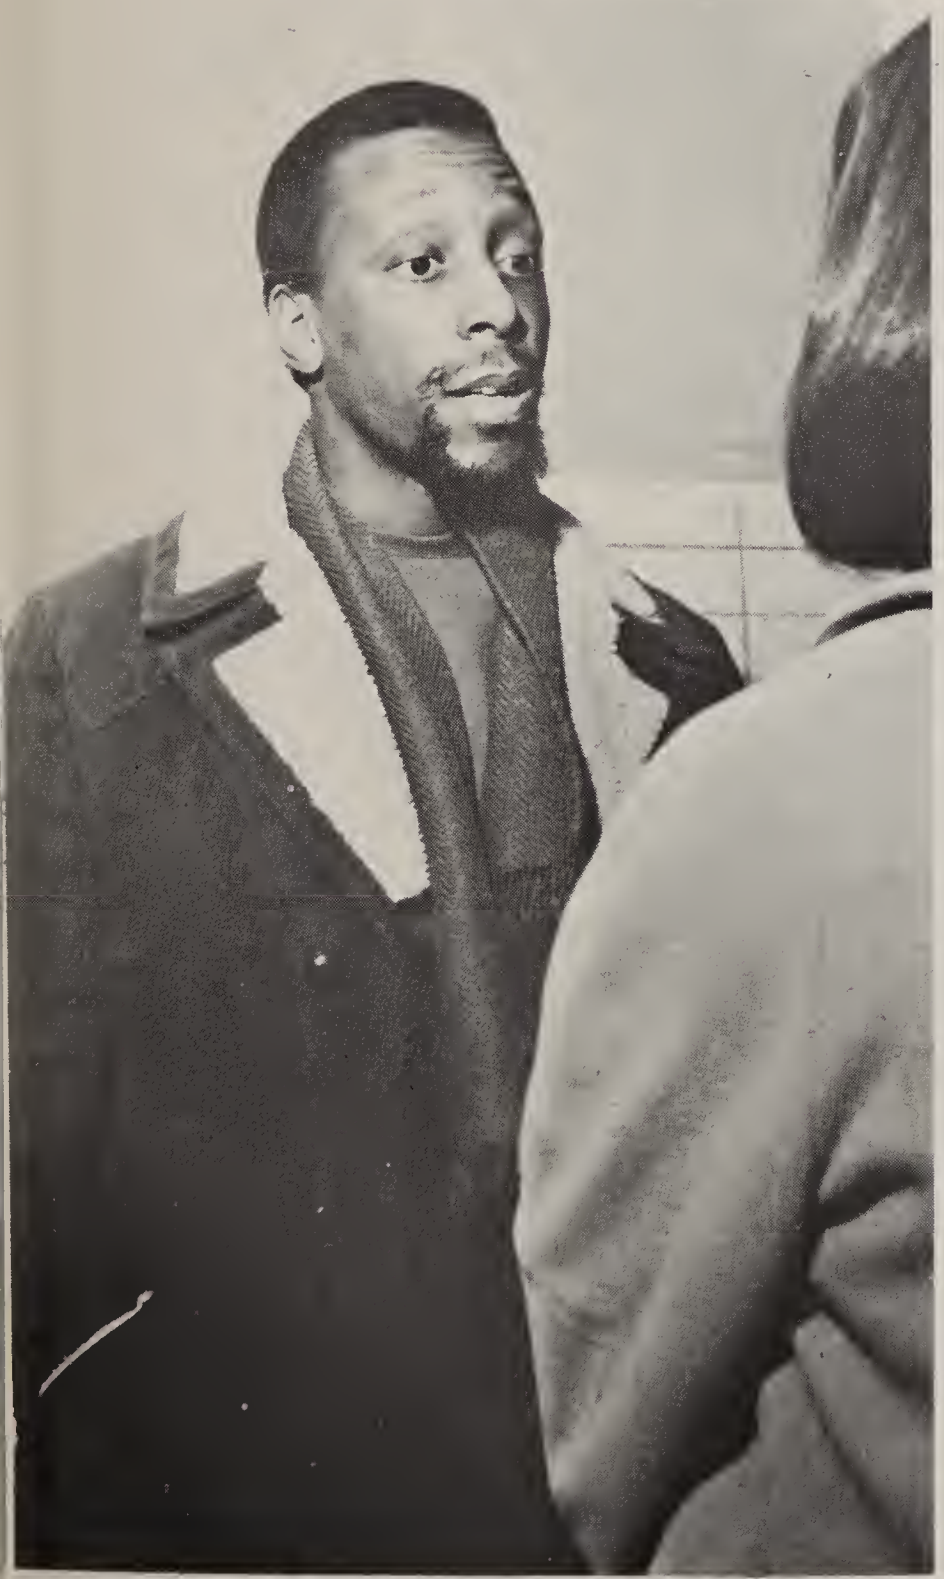


BROTHERHOOD WEEK HUMANIZES WEST

Brotherhood Week brought a rise of inquisitiveness among the students. Mr. Robert Mason, speaker at the frosh-soph assembly, gave his interpretation of racial problems. Mr. James Turner and Professor Wiebe of Northwestern University, also presented their views on man's humanity to man. Forums following the assemblies brought out many controversial comments among the students.

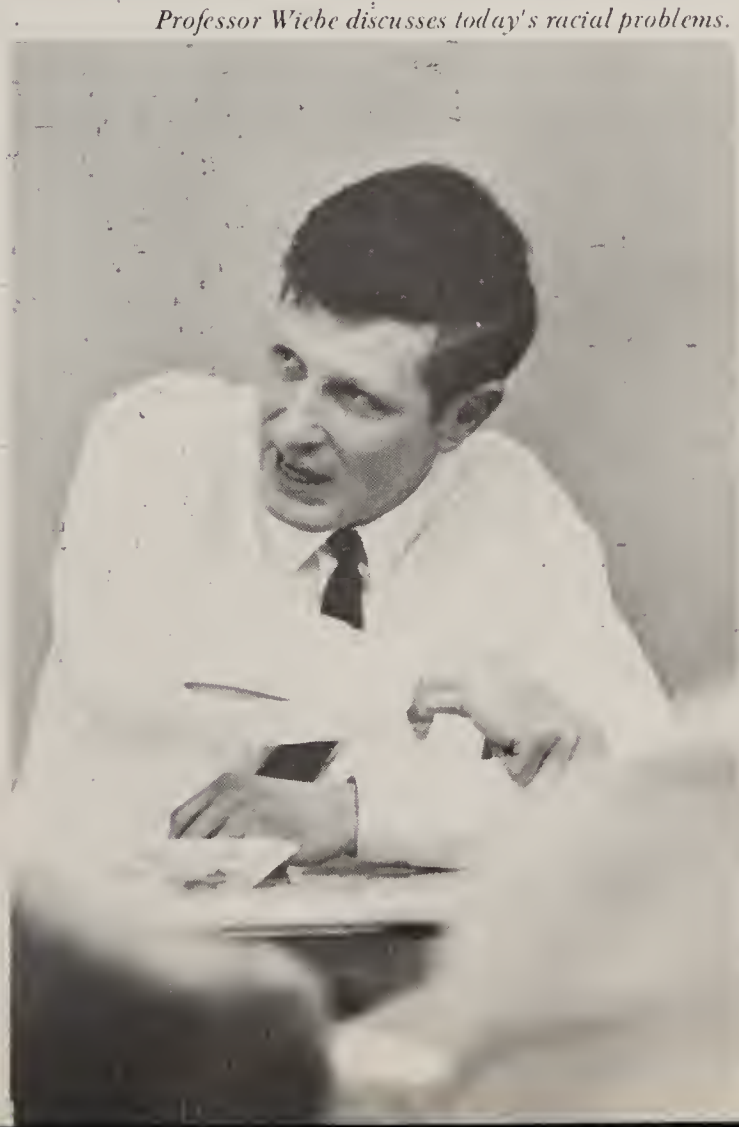
Mr. Robert Mason tells it like it is.

Mr. Mason listens to the questions of West's freshmen and sophomores.



Mr. James Turner takes an active interest in the opinions of Niles West students.

Professor Wiebe discusses today's racial problems.



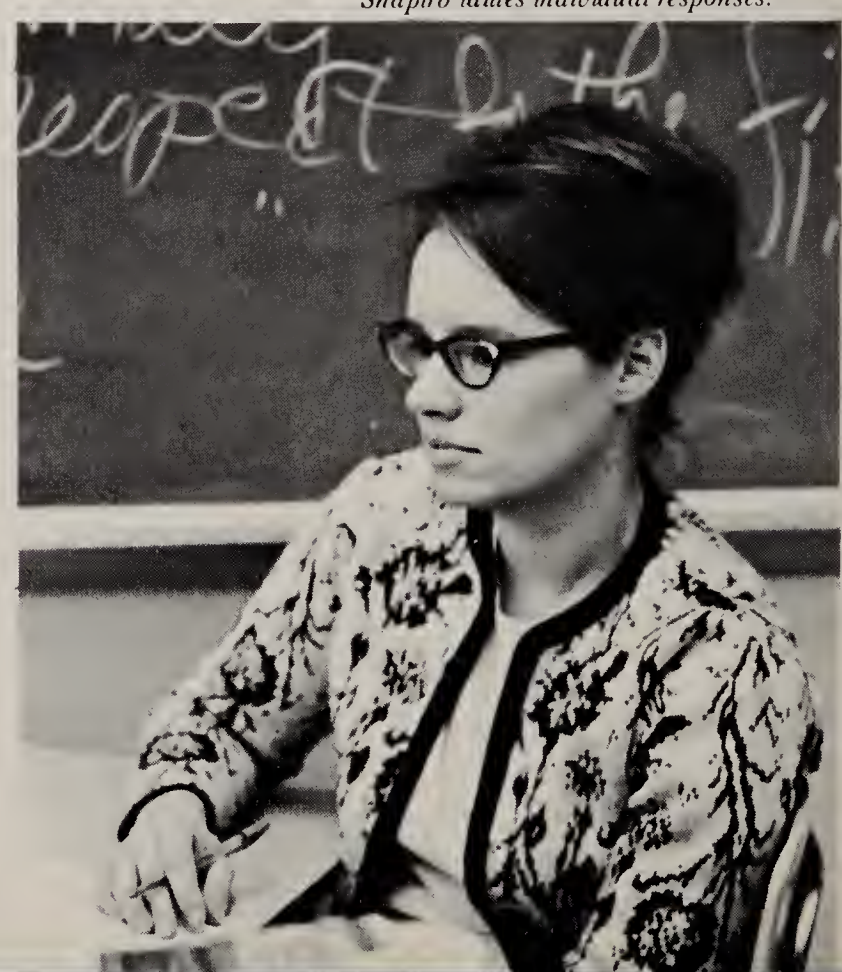
David Springer debates the validity of a question as prospective teammates sympathize with his dissension.

SCHOLARS SWEEP PREP BOWL

Starting in the spring of the 68-69 school year, the West "It's Academic" team attained a new high in total points, with a score of 410 in elimination rounds. Not only did team members Jesse Cedarbaum, Merrick Garland, David Springer and David Beswick display excellent factual knowledge on the "It's Academic" program, but they also performed intelligently on the Prep Bowl Quiz. Helping the team to achieve their four winning games were sponsors Faith Shapiro and Allan Paschke.

Mr. Paschke serves as moderator in a practice session.

Working towards final selections, Mrs. Shapiro tallies individual responses.



WEST STUDENTS PROVIDE VALUABLE SOCIAL SERVICE

This year Niles West students gave time and effort to a number of service projects. The two outstanding were the Hospital Visiting Troupe and a canning project of Medical Careers Club.

The Hospital Visiting Troupe, sponsored by Mr. Richard Turner, visited Cook County and Great Lakes Naval Hospitals on a bi-weekly basis. These trips provided not only an opportunity for the students to brighten the dull routine of a hospital patient, but to relate to people whose environment in no way resembles their own.

Medical Careers Club also participated in a social service project. Under the Niles Township Welfare service, the club collected canned goods to be distributed to needy families in the area.

Patricia Weiss cheers a bedridden Cook County Hospital patient.

Joan Levey gains human experience while reading to two enraptured patients.

Members of the Medical Careers Club display the canned foods collected for welfare cases in the Chicago area.

Suspended by chorus members, Barny Whitesman and Fred Kleinweig, the vivacious princess emits the final notes of the show.

"MOUSE DEVOURS HAWK"

"One Upon A Mattress" frosts the familiar tale "The Princess and the Pea" with satire and a musical score. The domineering Queen proclaims "no one shall wed before Dauntless shares the marriage bed," and succeeds in procrastinating the wedding through various subtle tactics. Climaxed with the arrival of Winnifred the Wobegone, Dauntless falls hopefully in love with "Fred." By means of the sensitivity test, the Queen plans in vain to expel the Princess from the kingdom, but she is outwitted by her conniving subjects.

Complimenting the main theme are further subplots of the muted king and his female pursuits, the lifting of the evil curse, and the romantic traumas of the 'star-crossed' lovers: Lady Larken and Sir Harry.

Although unable to vocalize, King Sextimus communicates in his own unique manner.

Shocked by the unprecedented arrival of the thirteenth princess, court members anxiously anticipate the Queen's reaction.

Captivating the audience with her dramatic gestures, Queen Rae Wallace devises a scheme to test the sensitivity of Princess Winnifred.

Linda Rubert pleads for some "Happily Ever After."

Love unites Lady Larkin and Sir Harry.

The Nightengale of Samarguand fails to lull the princess to sleep.

The frustrated King Sextimus employs the services of the Jester to track down his latest prospect.

Despite her determined efforts, "Fred" finds it impossible to overcome her insomnia.

The Queen consoles her sheltered son concerning the absence of an acceptable mate.

Unwittingly, the wizard divulges his plan to the scheming minstrel.

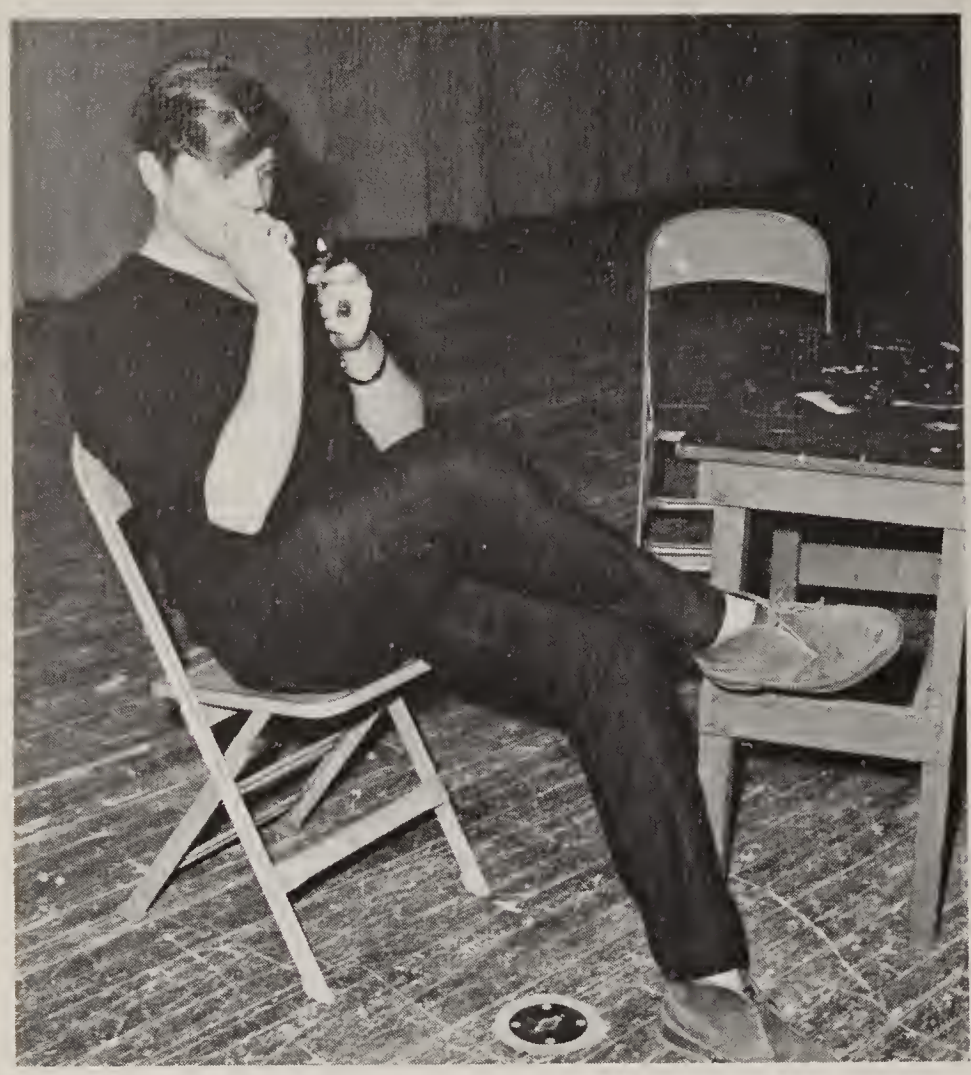
Court members nervously contemplate the test results.

The domineering Queen Aggravanin demand an explanation of the King's peculiar behavior

"Once Upon A Mattress," the first Johnson-Winkler collaboration, intoduced numerous finishing touches to the standard West productions. The comedy stressed group involvement, rather than emphasizing individual roles. The extraneous effects -- costumes, make-up, scenery and tableaus -- sufficiently impressed audiences that "mattress" was West's most professional theatrical offering.

Disdainful of her chore, Lady-in-Waiting, Ellen Lees, prepares Linda Rubert for bed.

Employing the images of "boy flower" and "girl flower," King Sextimus pantomimes the facts of life to the naive Dauntless.



In the opening scene of the play, Tom Mitt, portraying Biederman, hypnotically stares at a flame.

Three cast members form a dramatic triangle of antipathy.

"Don't put the blame on God."

Chorus members diligently memorize their lines.

"FIREBUGS" REHEARSE

Cast members mimick the student director at one of the first rehearsals.

This year's spring play, "Biederman and the Firebugs" by Max Frisch, was a production in the Niles West tradition. The plot essentially centers around Frisch's belief that one man's abstention from involvement makes him as guilty of a crime as the criminal himself. Biederman, which loosely translated means "every-man," allows arsonists to move into his home and eventually burn it down simply because he was afraid to force their expulsion.

Director Mr. James Batts, using the Greek-type chorus provided for within the script, experimented liberally with audience involvement techniques. Also, unusual stage and lighting effects were put to use, culminating in the burning of Biederman's house.

The dedication of the entire cast and crew provided for a meaningful and significant presentation.

Sidney Fay and Bob Greisman begin to assume the roles of the characters which they are to portray.

Chorus members look up to their leader, Steve Platt, with a few words of advice.

Steve Rosenstone and Jason Wolin take advantage of a sunny day to pose for their long-awaited Spectrum picture which was purchased at the Biafra auction.

SPRING PROVIDES A PANACEA FOR FATIGUED STUDENTS

As rays of spring sunshine pierce through the veil of melancholy and apathy, remnants of a winter disposition, hearts and souls are revitalized, while spirits are reborn. Spring activities bring with them greater searching, seeking clearer meanings to life, and a reawakening to the outside world. Spring attitudes are positive and despair has melted with the snow. Senses are refreshed with the change of season and minds are stimulated toward new discoveries. At the end of the year, Senioritas and spring fever may run rampant through Niles West, but the prospect of summer seems to soothe anxieties and bring brightness to the soul.

Spring weather allows "released" seniors to invade the courtyard for a change of scenery.

Marla Miller and Larry Schneider grimace at the prospect of returning to their classes after a restful interlude outdoors.

Planning the sequence of events for this year's National Honor Society induction, Keith Prontek, Grace Korzec, and Allen Daugird review the tentative plans.

Amidst spring fever and seniorítis, a courageous senior tackles her assignment with an air of assurance.

An "ambitious" senior finds time to catch up on much needed sleep after a rugged morning.

ACTIVITIES

INDIVIDUALITY PROMOTES CHANGE

The mood of 1969 was change; the theme catered to the individual. The 'West Way' was discarded for an undefined policy of "doing one's own thing." Mutually, the yearbook underwent a similiar process of eliminating traditional gestures and adopting new precedents. Supporting the premise that a yearbook should interpret as well as factually relate the events of the year, the editors strove to obtain objectivity concerning West. They pursued the ideal that students could achieve personal satisfaction without recognition in black and white. Thus, the senior activity listings were shuffled to a separate index, removed from their "impressive" position accompanying senior pictures. Underclassmen were no longer considered "sheep," so they too were granted individual poses. Rows of plastic smiles were replaced with action shots of clubs and athletic teams. In the unique introductory section, photography focused on individuals who had excelled in various achievements. Hopefully, Spectrum '69 will preserve the memories in their proper perspectives.

Consoled by advisors Mr. Turner and Miss Stewart, editors Joan Levey and Laurie Leader review in dismay the shortage of appropriated funds.

Gail Golman, Nancy Rochell, Diane Zagoren, and Alvin Katz dispute various dimensional possibilities for candid photographs.

As they skeptically preview activity candids, Maureen Missner, Marsha Greenstein, Shelly Gilman, Barb LeVine, Jay Kenis, and Ellen Jacobs prophesize student reactions to informal photographs.

Leafing through old volumes, Sharman Blumenthal, Margie Goran, Judy Klein, Sara Cooper, and Lois Raffel conclude that interpretative copy is a vital addition.

Larry Butter, Shelby Dunster, Karen Frankel, Jason Wolin and Ellen Boime deliberate over proper page distribution.

Bob Lande, Barry Isaacson, Linda Greenberg, Marlene Zukerman and David Beswick discuss the merits of including a senior index.

Exciting highlights of the year's special events are organized by Carol Sumner, Grace Korzec and Peggy Kaplan.

Wayne Chubin, Mark Karlin, and Sara Cooper decide on the proper proportions for a picture.

WEST WORD STRIVES

For the first time in a long time, Niles West has experienced a year of progress and unrest among the students. The editorial page has strived to be a leader of student opinion as well as a guide of social change. The first issue of the 1968-69 school year included a challenge proposed by Dr. Mannos as well as the West Word's hope for progress throughout the year.

Several issues most dominant in the controversy concern the West Free Press and the Political Forum Club, the institution of a Smoking Area, Project Wingspread, in addition to entire issues on student activism, politics '68, and drugs.

Andi Servas, Jim Litke, Jim Braun, Bob Goodman, and Marcia Sapstein review a hard week's work.

Ellen Lees, Donna Stolar, and Peggy Kaplan discuss an editorial concerning the question of student power.

FOR SOCIAL CHANGE

Judy Rotter and Steve Potoker compare the present expense account with last years.

Helane Bernstein types an article while Pam Kellman, Gary Weisman, and Lynn Schatzman argue over its worthiness with sponsor Mr. Turner.

STUDENT COUNCIL INITIATES NEW DRESS CODE

President Paul Sortal presides over a meeting.

Student Council revised the Dress Code, supported recognition of the Political Forum Club, and sponsored a Mock Political Election this year. Separating the ideal from the real, speakers at the Brotherhood Assembly criticized the hypocrisy of W.A.S.P. America, while seeking to reevalutate the term "brotherhood." Service projects included Bundles Days, AFS Week, and the Ugly Man Dance. West Student body, however, demanded materialistic results for fund-raising efforts. Thus, council purchased a juke-box with the diminutive Ugly Man profits. A school with so much remained unwilling to give to others, but preferred to directly benefit from their wealth.

Officers Merrick Garland, Jay Kenis, Paul Sortal, Laurie Leader, and Barry Rosen reread a proposed amendment.

Representatives listen intently to days of discussion on their by-laws at the beginning of the year.

Steve Wolf, Gene Gussis and Debbie Gorenstein compare notes.

Although they may look it, the people of Student Council are far from boring.

APOTHEOSIS CHALLENGES CREATIVITY

Paula Begeon, Mary Rogina, Linda Simons, Mr. Gragg, and Jesse Cederbaum pore over articles submitted to the literary magazine.

Printed every year, Apotheosis serves as a depository for all creative expressions in poetry, prose, and art. Annual contests, open to the entire student body, are held to select the highest quality compositions. The materials are then edited and assembled by the student members of Apotheosis, and distributed throughout the school. Creativity if favorably heightened in both writers and critics as a result of the magazine's publication.

PRESS BUREAU BRIEFS PUBLIC

Judy Bork, Mr. Geismann, David Bloom, Paula Cass, and Sherri Silverman as members of the Niles West Bureau select articles pertaining to events occuring at the school.

Emphasizing the interdependency of the school and the community, Press Bureau meets daily to discuss methods to further communication. They distribute press releases to local newspapers to inform the community of the wide scope of events West has to offer including Unions, productions, and achievements. Once an article has been printed, it is posted on the bulletin board in the corridor near the main office.

S.S.O. AIDS RELEASED SENIORS

In their 16 headquarters, smiling S.S.O. monitors plan their activities. Besides helping lost students to their destinations through the cavernous halls of West, and guiding released seniors to the library, cafeteria, or coke machine, the monitors also serve as loyal clerks throughout the various offices in the school.

S.S.O. Executive Board: Doris Ales, Mike Mangurten, Sandi Goldberg, and Dennis Tortorella select monitors for the year.

UNITY BOARD PERPETUATES STUDENT GOALS

The basic function of a club is to offer its members some challenge--either in the field of discovery or entertainment. Unity Board, composed of representatives from each chartered organization, emphasized the necessity of communication between various groups. The monthly forums provoked commentary concerning Biafra, the PA committee, and the controversial West Free Press. Attempting to alter restrictions that dampened student freedoms, members discovered that every club strove to improve West, not for individual recognition but for universal contentment.

Sandy Yablin, Paul Sortal, and Jim Gassel review agenda for the next Unity Board meeting.

N-Club officers Jeff Kramer, Bob Downing, Steve Richter, and Bob Perz preside over a meeting held in the gymnasium.

N-CLUB INSTRUMENTAL AT SPORTS EVENTS

Although school spirit at West this year took an apethic tune, N-Club continually strove to renew its popularity through positive endeavors. They also were instrumental in athletic events, guarding the gates of the football field and holding the basketball ropes. During Homecoming, N-Club craftsmen constructed the cowboy annihilated at the Pep Rally in addition to the third-place float which "illuminated" the parade.

The Niles West Lettermen build strength while exhibiting school spirit.

POM-PON SQUAD HEIGHTEN SPIRIT

As an established organization at West, the Pom-Pon Squad gained the respect and recognition of the student body as a permanent spirit-promoting factor. Costumed in authentic Indian outfits complete with fringe, their creative routines to such tunes as "Alley Cat," "Up, Up, and Away," and "Sunny" attests to the admiration they received.

Debbie Warsaski, Marla Shandelson, and Joanie Zoros practice briefly before their performance at a football game.

Joan Zoros, Diana Durston, Randi Mirsky, Debbie Warsaski, and Nancy Rochell highlight the half-time entertainment.

Debbie Warsaski and Diana Durston perform to "Up, Up, And Away."

Cindy Roland and Shelley Levin boost spirit while performing the school song.

CHEERLEADERS: EVIDENT OF CHANGE

With highly successful performances displayed by West teams in all the major sports, the Niles cheerleaders had a pleasant job rousing the sports crowds to lead the school on to victory. Throughout the year freshman, sophomore and varsity squads perfected new routines to instill the greatest amount of spirit possible.

Lynda Gill ardently cheers the Indians on to victory.

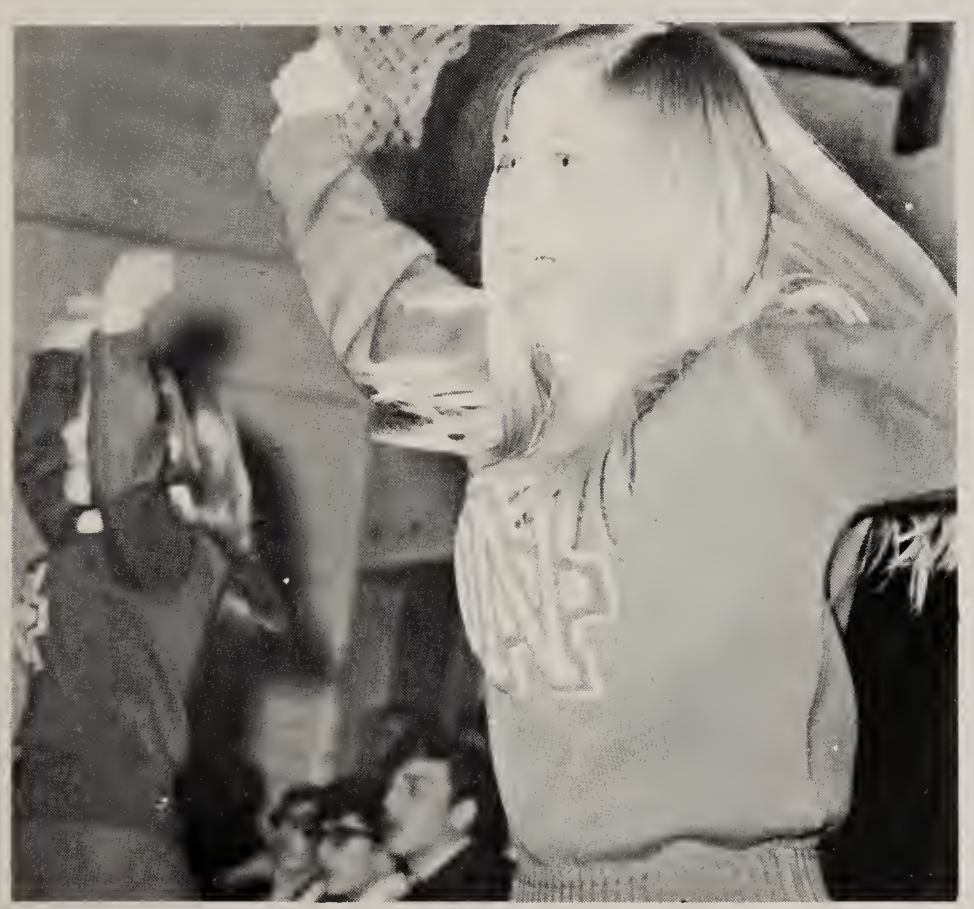
Andi Servos, Denise Schroeder, and Jill Press (Captain) reflect the crowd's enthusiasm during a cheer.

Julie Krieter's emotions escape her during a game.

Jan Bydalek and Nancy Nortell led the jubilant crowds.

Sophomore cheerleaders Judy Bereskin and Susan Timmer practice for an oncoming game.

Sue Spitizer and Amy Auerbach are stimulated by the team's victory.



Marla Rodnick and Sue Polone excitingly watch the game.

Spirited Shelley Franks leads a chant.

Kathy Caliva is hopeful that the Indians will win.

Bari Kreiter shows her support for the Indians

PEP CLUB AROUSES SPIRIT

Mary Myles, Jackie Nishimura, Barbara Clark, and Debby Huber contemplate new cheers.

In their admirable efforts to instill school spirit, Pep Club members faithfully attended each game. Unfortunately they often comprise the majority of the spectators. Niles West students consider sports events last minute resorts to end ennui. Pep Club's support nurtured, however, with each win, highlighted by a successful basketball season. "Yeah, boys, just give us those results and we'll cheer you on!"

TIMER'S CLUB AIDS OFFICIALS AT SWIMMING MEETS

Armed with stop-watch in hand, the Niles West Timer's Club officiated the swimming events. They timed the home meets and assisted the referees in the announcement of each event. The club was highly selective since only those girls that passed a difficult preliminary test were admitted. In addition to their function as officials, the Timers encouraged school spirit and good sportsmanship.

Patti Joslyn, Jean Sobel, and Debbie Vinci ardently time the swimmers on to victory.

Sandi Goldberg, Mr. Requarts, Diane Wurkus, Carol Weir, Mr. Drum, and Sandy Yablin prepare for the Union.

STUDENT UNION EXPANDS PROGRAM

Good griefs? Jesse James meets Frankenstein? Free Beatle albums? These extraordinary events occurred at the "5 instead of 4" Student Unions. West students brought dates from other schools, who grooved to Phil Upchurch and the Sowful Strings, learned "How to Steal a Million" and blew a few minds at a funky Light Show. The organization's responsibilities were distributed among committees and weekly discussion periods. Their final committment was to interview and select a new board for the oncoming year.

Student Union Board President Sandy Yablin checks identification cards and tickets at the door.

Carol Weir, Debbie Kouzes, Sandi Goldberg, and Joyce Feinberg sample the refreshments to be served at the Student Union.

GERMAN CLUB EPITOMIZES HOLIDAY FESTIVITIES

Alan Strauss, Marty Levin, Dave Berkowitz, Donna Sherbin, Jamie Wiczer, Joni Gold, and Carol Deppong discuss coming German Club activities with their sponsor, Mr. Brink.

German Club does not limit their study of the language to a 40 minute class period. Members augmented their information of the culture through guest lecturers and audio supplements. A conventional Christmas party was hosted by a German Santa Claus and a May banquet terminated the year's activities.

FRENCH CLUB SEES "JACQUE BREL"

Annually French Club follows a standard procedure of informative discussions accompanied by guest lecturers to bolster the knowledge of Parisian culture. "The Two Of Us" enchanted members with the simplicity of love, and the viewing of "Jacque Brel Is Alive and Well and Living In Paris" acquainted the students with the language in the play medium.

Susan Brody and Audrey Rosen decorate the French Club bulletin board, while Susan LeVine and Suzie Lerner are read a French Magazine.

"WHO SAID LATIN IS DEAD?"

Latin Club officers Phillip Zazove, Cary Hidaka, Debbie Deal, Ann Sekloff, and Rosemary Lerner discuss plans for the next club meeting.

Latin Club students anticipated the annual Saturnalia Christmas party, a simulation of a traditional Roman banquet. Limited by a small treasury and membership, their income relied heavily on the ever-popular cliche'--the Niles West Bake Sale.

RUSSIAN CLUB WINS FLOAT AWARD

Aided by a tape recorder, Nancy Rochell, Marla Shandelson, and David Beswick repeat Russian dialogue.

Although indoctrined that the only fascinating aspect of Russia is the practice of communism, some students at West sought to explore the lighter half of Russian culture.

However they still participated in the "All American tradition of building a class "B" Homecoming float which took first place in the competition. A gala Christmas party highlighted the bleak winter days and the annual spring picnic culminated the year's achievements.

SPANISH CLUB DINES AT CAFE' LA MARGUIRITA

With the assistance of language lab facilities, Mrs. Jeffrey informs Spanish Club students Andi Block, Charlene Miller, Robyn Podell, Holly Fishkin, Gary Chankin, and Anita Salzman on correct Spanish accent.

Meeting twice a month to explore the spanish people and their culture, Spanish club had the "usual" series of projects. They built a Homecoming float as well as sponsoring a banquet dinner at Cafe' la Marguirita.

ARTS CLUB LAUNCHES BIAFRA AUCTION

Art is not a label restricted to a painting by Da-Vinci, it encompasses anything that gives plea sure. Arts club explored the established fields of art music and literature and progressed into the hu-manities by initiating the Biafra auction. Student orators expounded on numerous subjects, from at-tacking outmoded school policies to offering pro-posals for global peace.

Mr. Gragg was available for consultation.

Arts club members view posters designed to advertise the next meeting.

INVOLVEMENT--AIM OF ART COUNCIL

Participation in the experimental art phases was promoted by Art Council, as they delved into the world of contemporary medias. A combined light show and art exhibit was presented in the Oakton Lobby for the P.T.A. Open House. Projects concerning surrealism and the phychedelic occupied the majority of time furing the bi-monthly meetings.

Under the supervision of their club sponsor, Bob Weitzman, Anita Applebaum, Laurie Orlove, Neil Bacher, and Kandy Diakoumis work on their current art projects.

G.A.A. MEMBERSHIP SUBSTANTIALLY INCREASES

Linda Delano, Nancy Majewski, Terri Kimura, and Val Kuehn preside over a G.A.A. meeting.

The Girl's Athletic Association is densely populated with gym leaders and those interested in pursuing diversified athletic activities. Participation in basketball, slimnastics, volleyball, tennis and gymnastics illustrates how the "superactive" girls utilize their time. Others join the fun by purchasing bake good at after school sales, or bringing dates to the co-ed sport nights. This year, the Valentine Dance featured the "Wee Hours" in cominbation with a Sportsnight. The Spring Awards Night honored the past year's participants and announced the election of new officers.

THESPIANS UNITE ENERGETIC DRAMA STUDENTS

Thespian members contribute extensively in theatrical areas. Membership is achieved with the accumulation of ten points by participation. An annual spring banquet serves the dual purpose to present awards to individuals who have excelled and to recognize new members.

Marty Levin, Jordon Katz, Mark Dolnick, Roberta Ginter, Debbie Roth, and Peggy Kaplan gather to discuss the script for the musical.

SPOTLIGHTERS CO-ORDINATE DRAMATIC ACTIVITIES

Spotlighter officers Marlene Meyers, Cindy Wien, Sue Sedloff, Jordon Katz, and Lonnie Leavitt compare notes in the auditorium after a meeting.

Spotlighters encompasses a variety of dramatic activities. Members range from the "Sammy Star" of major productions to the "little people behind the scenes" responsible for make-up, costumes, lighting, and props. Devoted to the encouragement of theater arts, Spotlighters emphasizes the importance of dedication and hard work for enjoyment and satisfaction rather than personal gain.

FORENSIC TEAM ATTENDS STATE MEET

Fran Cutler, Bonnie Rupert, Linda Rupert, and Pam Kellman discuss new ideas for the next Forensics meet.

Whether an expert on current events, an effective dramatic speaker, or an interpreter of verse, forensics offers opportunities for all to express themselves in speech. Contests are held throughout the year at surrounding high schools where students present programs in speech which they have organized or written. Although not all speech club members attended the final district, sectional and state meets, the speaking ability of all members in both delivery and interpretation is enthusiastically improved.

DEBATE TEAM IMPROVES

Learning to speak effectively and at a moments notice is thought by many to be the "key to success." The debate team practices these concepts each day as they prepare for various meets. The impressive record the team attained proves that the long diligent hours of practice payed off.

Debate team members Michael Shattow and Rick Schoonfield present a debate while the remainder of the class listen attentively.

Dianna Durston, Karen Mueller, Gayle Mueller, Allison Gunlach, and Linda Erton perfect a dance.

SHOW A TREMENDOUS SUCCESS

Jody Ellyne and LuEllyn Conrad exhibit grace and skill on the balance beam.

Girls display grace juxaposed with skill in performances of gymnastics and Theatre dance. Routines on the uneven parallelbars, the balance beam, and the horse are demonstrated at various junior high and elementary schools of the district. Half time exhibitions at games and tri-school meets warranty tumbling, rhythmical gymnastics, and floor exercise. Both clubs appeared in the annual Aquasprite show contrasting the activity in the water with terranian representations. They united a January program of unique manuevers which drew applause as well as amazement from the satisfied audience.

Judy Wasmund attempts an extremely difficult stunt on the uneven parallel bars.

Usherettes Gail Hammerberg, Jean Horvat, Kris Tegert, Val Unrath, LuEllen Conrad, Laurel Lowery, and Patti Joslyn distribute programs at the beginning of Pow Wow.

USHRETTES SOLVE SEATING PROBLEMS

An integral service organization at Niles, the usherettes aid the smooth operation of school productions, seating the audience and distributing programs. They promote the West image offering "service with a smile" in their self-made red uniforms. In addition to their functionary role, the girls planned a mother-daughter banquet in the spring.

MEDICAL CAREERS CLUB ACT AS VOLUNTEERS

Outside opportunities to learn about medical fields are offered to the members of Medical Careers Club. Certain students are involved in the health center at school, becoming familiar with medical problems within a high school. Other club participants visit nearby hospitals, where they perform advantageous service projects. Medical Careers Club enables all students to further their knowledge to prepare for many medical professions.

Members of Medical Careers Club Mary Wargo, Jean RUST= Patty Bromson, Jackie Nishimura, and Wendy MacInnes look through nursing school brochures.

INEXPERIENCE HINDERS GIRLS' TENNIS TEAM

Tennis Club members Judy Wasmund, Sherry Segal, Ricky Horwitz, and Nancy Majewski prepare for daily practice.

Hurdling the obstacles of inexperience and lack of moral support the Girls' tennis team ended the season with a remarkable 2-2 record. The team was composed of primarily sophomores, constantly striving for improvement and perfection under the coaching of Miss Judy Wilde.

GIRLS' BADMINTON TEAM SHOWS POTENTIAL

The Girls' badminton team is yet another sport affiliated with the Girls' Athletic Association. This year the team was highly selective-- only those girls that showed extraordinary skill were chosen. Practice was held daily. Experience was earned through interscholastic games and meets with surrounding schools.

Roberta Nelson and Lynn Hirschauer wait the return of the birdie.

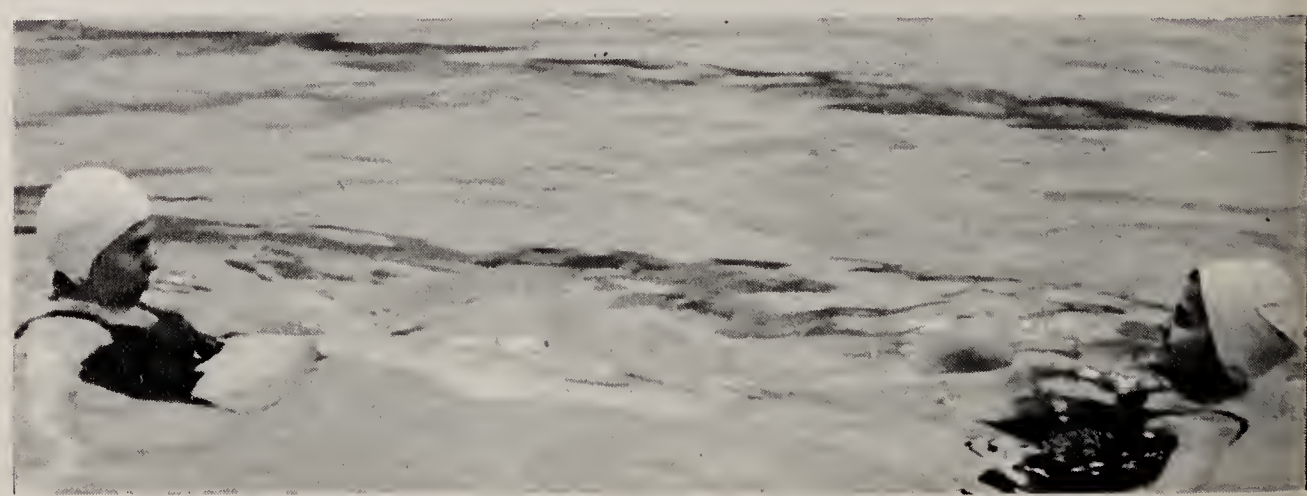
Kathy Heinz, Jerry Sorenson, Alison Gunlach, Bill Patterson, and Mike Shapiro rehearse their act to be used in the Aquasprite show.

AQUASPRITE SHOW IS A HUGE SUCCESS

Pete Amarratos and Roxanne Stoklosa perfect their number.

Aquasprites was the only girls' swimming club affiliated with G.A.A. Combining aqua-skills with gracefully moving compositions, the Aquasprite water show, "Crazy Concoctions of Clever Cliches" proved to be one of the most unusual programs at West. The show included an underwater act which was rightfully named "Silence is Golden" and new lighting effects. The experience of Miss Carol Strockmeyer and Miss Judi Wilde was evident in the professional direction of the show.

Gretchen Johnson and Carol Loose add an enjoyable addition to the show.

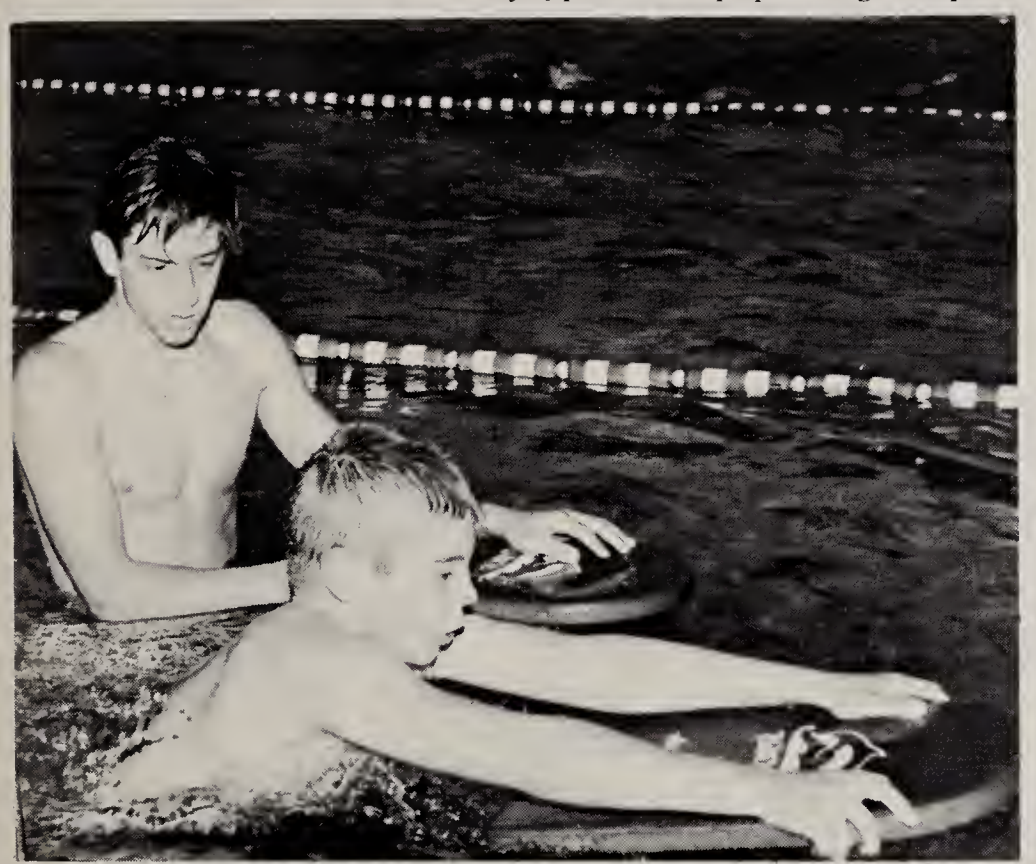


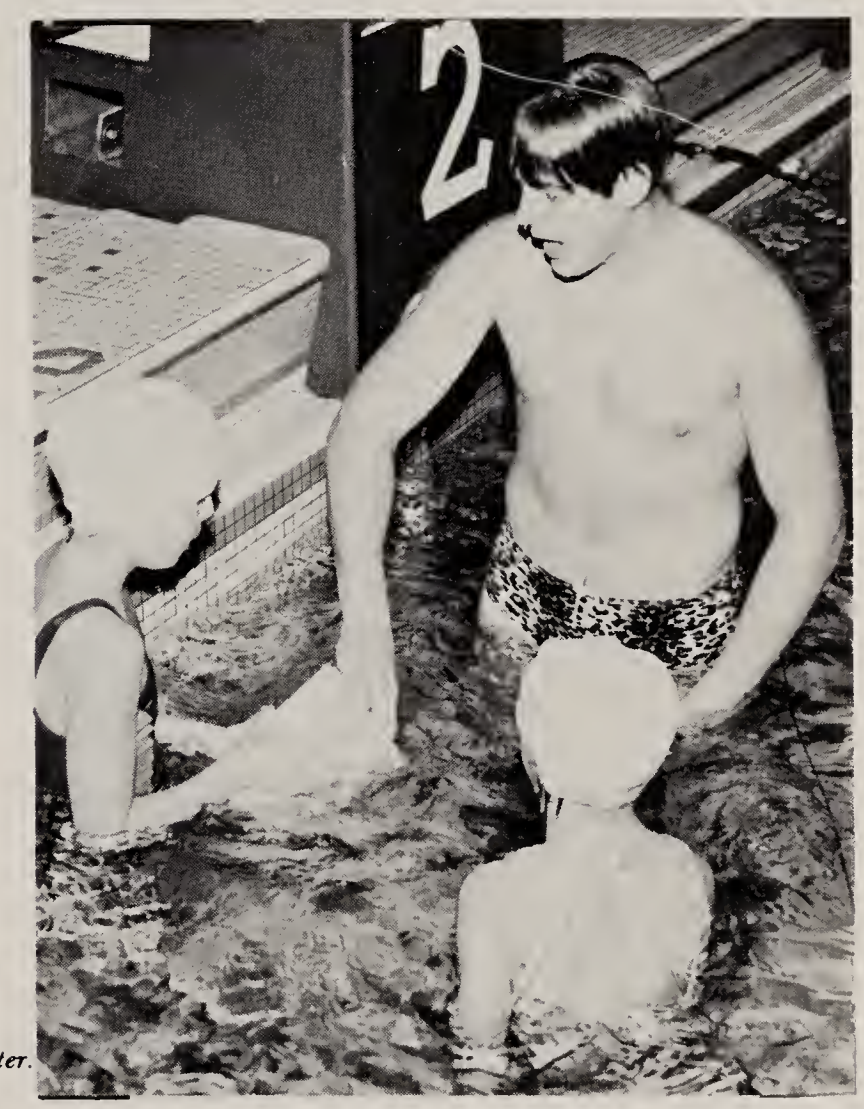
Gary Zupko instructs a youngster on the basics of swimming.

GUARDS CLUB INSTRUCTS YOUNGSTERS

Patience, aqua-skills, and desire to instruct are all prerequisites for guard club members. Although the club encourages its members to enjoy themselves while in action, its primary purpose is to teach children how to swim on Saturday mornings and promote safety while functioning as life guards. Guard club members gain satisfaction through watching their pupils excel.

Gary Zupko instructs proper diving techniques.





Bill Peterson urges his young charges not to fear water.

A Chess Club member ponders his next move.

Indoctrined to "think first," Chess Club members improved their game while simultaneously learning to accept both victory and defeat gracefully. Weekly meetings challenged the resourcefulness of its members through interscholastic round robin tournaments and occasional meets against neighboring schools.

CHESS CLUB IS GREATLY IMPROVED

ANTI-SMOG CLUB VISITS JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOLS

Anti-Smog Club members are devoted to the prevention of smoking--in particular teenage smoking. In attempting to obtain this goal, members sought to educate the public on the hazards of smoking. Demonstrations in surrounding junior high schools were held and related movies were shown at Niles West. The club proved highly successful, to date 1200 students have signed a pledge declaring that they will not smoke.

Gale Sichav, a member of the Anti-Smog Club demonstrates the bad effects of smoking to Don Kane, Mark Dunk and Dennis Regner.

ASTRONOMICAL AND AERONAUTICS CLUB EXPERIMENT WITH TELESCOPES

Alan Chow explains the concepts of the telescope to Nancy Goldman, Wendy Mitchell, Terry Ahr, Mr. Rogoski, and Marshall Solomon.

Combining students interested in furthering their knowledge of astronomy was the aim of Astronomical and Aeronautics Club. Members worked with telescopes, some of which they developed themselves. They also built model airplanes which they entered in several local contests.

BIOCHEMISTRY CLUB PRESENTS HARRISON AWARD

The main purpose of Biochemistry Club is to further interest in the fields of biology and chemistry. The weekly meetings included lectures by members of the faculty, speakers from local plants, and experimentation by the students. The club also presented the annual Harrison Award.

Using the chemistry lab, Sam Gordon, Marla Miller and Jamie Wiczer perform an experiment.

Science Seminar members use various lab equipment in pursuit of higher scientific knowledge.

SCIENCE SEMINAR STUDIES SCIENTIFIC PRINCIPLES

The fundamental purpose of the Science Seminar program is the enhancement of the student's scientific abilities. Hopefully, this interest acquired from seminar work will lead him to a satisfying and prosperous career in a particular scientific field. The activities conducted during the course of the year intense and diversify, but the focal point of each student's seminar participation is his work on a scientific project.

ECOLOGY CLUB VISITS INDIANA DUNES AREA

Seeking to better understand plants and animals in their relationship to their environment, Ecology club observed nature through field work. Their agenda included by-monthly meetings featuring guest lecturers and films, as well as support of the Lake Mannos project, and trips to Goose Lake Prairie, the Indiana Dunes, and Wisconsin's Kettle-Moraine region.

Under the guidance of Mr. Mitchell, Ecology Club members Judy Enenstein, Tim Torp, and Gary Kriss view a film.

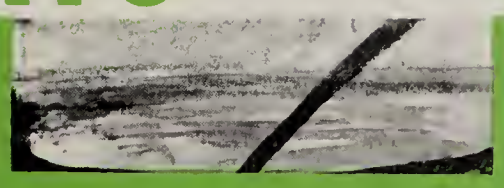
SPORTS



CAPTAINS SPARK TEAM PLAY

Team sports and individual sports both ask for participants to contribute to the fullest measure. In the fiercely competitive world of inter-scholastic sports certain individuals seem to find that measure of strength that goes one step beyond the expectations. These individuals are elected or named captains of their teams. However it is not merely to recognize individual accomplishment that they are chosen. It is more of a challenge to competitors and to the spirit of competition that briefly singles out one of two boys before they return to the collectiveness of the team effort.

HOMECOMING HIGHLIGHTS SEASON

Highlighting the 1968 football for Niles West was the Indian's decisive 35-0 Homecoming victory against the New Trier Cowboys. The spirit regenerated by the first Homecoming victory since 1965, set for the squad a pace of eagerness, augmented by what one could say to be a new experience . . . the experience of winning!

But Homecoming was only one game. Before West had faced the Cowboys on October 12, they had racked up two shut-out victories; one, a non-conference match with Maine East and the other conference, against Maine West. Entering the next game against Niles North with an unscored upon 2-0 record, and instilled with hope of getting through the fall with an undefeated record, West crossed town to edge the Vikings 7-0.

Defeated by Glenbrook North, the Indians delighted in, Glenbrook's later foreit of the victory because of a discrepancy in one of their player's ages. After Homecoming, the Indians faced Deerfield and Maine and the West magic was stopped, with the losses of 20-7, and 20-14 respectively. The season's last game proved to be another defeat for West, this time dealt by Glenbrook South.

In spite of the last three games, West still had managed to come through with a spectacular and eventful season . . . that brought greater amounts of fans to West's stands . . . that captured a Homecoming victory for the first time in four years . . . that with the help of outstanding Senior members Quarterback Paul Sortal, all-conference tackle Chuck Lange and end Bob Perz, managed to excite an other-wise apathetic sports scene.

SOCCER, HER

For the first time in the history of the school, Niles West can boast a varsity soccer team. Their rather poor one win and nine loss record does not accurately reflect its true ability and determination. Regardless of its showing, the soccer team fared as well as could have been expected. Coached by Fernando Valesco, the team showed signs of skill and dexterity. The players often put together coordinated and successful attacks, similar to the workings of a well-oiled and efficient machine. Unfortunately, however, those signs of quality and perfection were too scarce to be of much value. Individual standouts included Senior Mark Barnett and Juniors Mark Halperin, Ed Halpern, Rollin Soskin, Bruce Lippo, and Rick Bold, who was voted the teams most valuable player.

The outlook for next year is one of considerable optimism. Most of the personnel from this year's team will return intact. The added experience gained should be of tremendous value. The next few years of trial and experimentation shall decide the future of Niles West soccer. Its success or failure depends entirely upon the experience and confidence gained.

HEIDKE VOTED MOST VALUABLE

In the course of a year, several teams exhibit a strong tendency to be swallowed up and forgotten amid the pomp and celebration of more dramatic sports events. The Cross-Country team, overshadowed by football, remains as one of the most underrated and ignored teams in red and white. The lack of interest is reflected by the meager size of the team and a grevious lack of spectators. The personnel, while lacking in quantity, portrays the true spirit of Niles West. The athletes work hard, not for the purpose of drowning Niles West in glory, but only to strain every muscle to bring home a victory. The Cross Country team, this year, coached by Ronald Campbell, experienced a rather disappointing season. Their record was a respectable 4 wins in conference play, and 6 wins and 5 losses against the entire field of competitors, but they expected a year of much greater success. Hampered by injuries and illness, they lost meets they could have easily won. Standouts on the team included Seniors Scott Brooks, Jim Macnider, Mark Gorsky, and Dave Heidke, who though injured much of the season, was the teams most valuable runner.

FENCERS TAKE SIXTH IN STATE

Senior Alan Chow warms up before important meet as teammate Steve Bell eyes his style.

Coach Arthur Leipold of the Niles West fencing team expressed disappointment with the record compiled by the varsity fencers. The fencers certainly were not expected to win the conference championship, but their 6 and 9 record left much to be desired. The team's most imposing weakness was the lack of depth. The only excuse for this shortcoming could only be attributed to the poor turnout. Only fifteen souls showed up for practice and such a meager figure was certainly not enough in which to build a winning team. The fencers, however, finished sixth of thirteen teams in the state meet and boasted three talented athletes in Scott Braverman, Shelly Bernstein, and Steve Bell.

In a close contest, West fencer tallies up vital points.

Like the first game when the Indians defeated the defending state champions--the Evanston Wildkats; or when Paul Sortal connected with a 20- foot jump shot with 22 seconds left to beat the powerful team from Maine South.

The 1969 varsity Indians basketball team brought fame to Niles West. They were continually recognized by Chicago newspapers as one of the finest teams in the area; also bringing home the tile of the Central Suburban League and also a trophy for winning the Niles North holiday Tournament.

West had the honor of having three players selected to the all-conference team: Al Chapman, Paul Sortal and Mark Cartwright; Rick Ostergaard was awarded honorable mention.

Sparkling the team was the play of 5'10" Captain Alan Chapman, who in his fourth year as a varsity cager, lead the team in scoring.

6'8" Mark Cartwright added all important height, and led the team in rebounding. He also did an excellent job of holding down many big men in the league, and was according to Coach Bill Schnurr "the surprise of the year."

For the first time in four years, Niles West matmen lacked a winning season, finishing 3 and 4 in league competition. One of the highlights of the season was the Prospect tournament, where out of eight teams competing, West received a second place trophy. Voted all-conference were matmen Gregg Schneider at 103 pounds, Mark Gilbert at the 127 pound division, and for the second consecutive year, captain Bob Perz at 154. The Varsity swimming team this year posted a modest but well-earned record in what has to be a very creditable performance against tough competition. The season's highlight was the state meet where senior Don Cashmore took a second in diving competition. Cashmore will undoubtedly be missed, but true to the Niles West tradition other highly skilled athletes will rise to take his place. Due to a fine freshman turnout, Niles West has bright hopes for the future.

GYMNASTS FINISH EIGHTH IN STATE

The varsity gymnasts concluded what can be termed a rather dismal year. They finished fourth of six schools in the Central Suburban League meet. The gymnasts obviously lacked the needed depth and versatility characteristic of past teams. If the team possessed sufficient depth to back up the individual standouts, the gymnasts would most certainly had had a more successful year. Outstanding performers who took part in this year's state meet included seniors Pete Laloggia, Jim Porges, and junior Kirk Moser. These three members of the team caused the students to gain a deeper appreciation of performances by the athletes and their coaches John Burkel, John Armour, and Fernando Valesco.

TORTORELLA SHATTERS RECORDS

Coach Ron Campbell's trackmen, boasting a substantial winning streak, finished what can be termed a very successful season. Paced by several remarkable athletes, the trackmen exhibited strength, balance, versatility, and poise finishing with a 13 and 5 won and loss record. The track team possessed depth as every athlete deserved individual recognition.

Paced by individual standouts such as Dennis Tortorella, who shattered many hurtling records, the dual meet results were excellent but the trackmen failed to place high in larger meets. Other outstanding performers included Bob Guenther in the hurdles, Fred Eisenhammer in the fifty yard dash, Bill Kretschner in the middle distances, Scott Brooks in the miles, Jim Macnider in the two mile, and Rolfe Jaremus in the high-jump.

Demonstrating his own style, Dennis Tortorella clears the last hurdle.

Murray Gussis strains for more distance in the long jump.

Lee Cohen finds first place a lonesome spot.

Junior Steve Beaudette utilizes every muscle for added distance, while executing the long jump.

Coach Campbell, impressed by the outcome of the indoor track season, is expecting a fine year from the outdoor trackmen. Paced by the same individuals who sparked the indoor track team to a fine won and loss record, the outdoor trackmen can look forward to the same sort of success. Dave Heidke, Rolfe Jaremus, Dennis Tortorella, and Jim Macnider, to name just a few, could help Niles West bring home a league championship. The trackmen hope to continue the fine record in dual meets and improve their status in the larger meets.

Coach Campbell shouts encouragement to one of his runners.

DIAMOND MEN START STRONG

The Niles West varsity baseball squad, coached by Jim Phipps, strongly resembles the team sent down state to represent Niles West several years ago. The squad, overflowing with talent, possesses a unique optimism and a yearning to win. The exuberance of the personnel is symbolic of all winning teams. The pitching is strong as Paul Sortal, Stew Colton, and Brian Jacobs have turned in sparkling performances in early season play. The offense, sparked by the potent bats of Al Chapman, Steve Dimas, and Terry Lorenz to name just a few have demonstrated the ability to score runs. Unfortunately, the team has lapsed occasionally into ruts of carelessness and poor play. The usually sharp pitching, hitting, and defense has, at times, failed. The Indians, if they can play a more consistent brand of baseball, have an excellent chance of defeating the toughest of competitors.

Terry Lorenz hurls one of his better pitches.

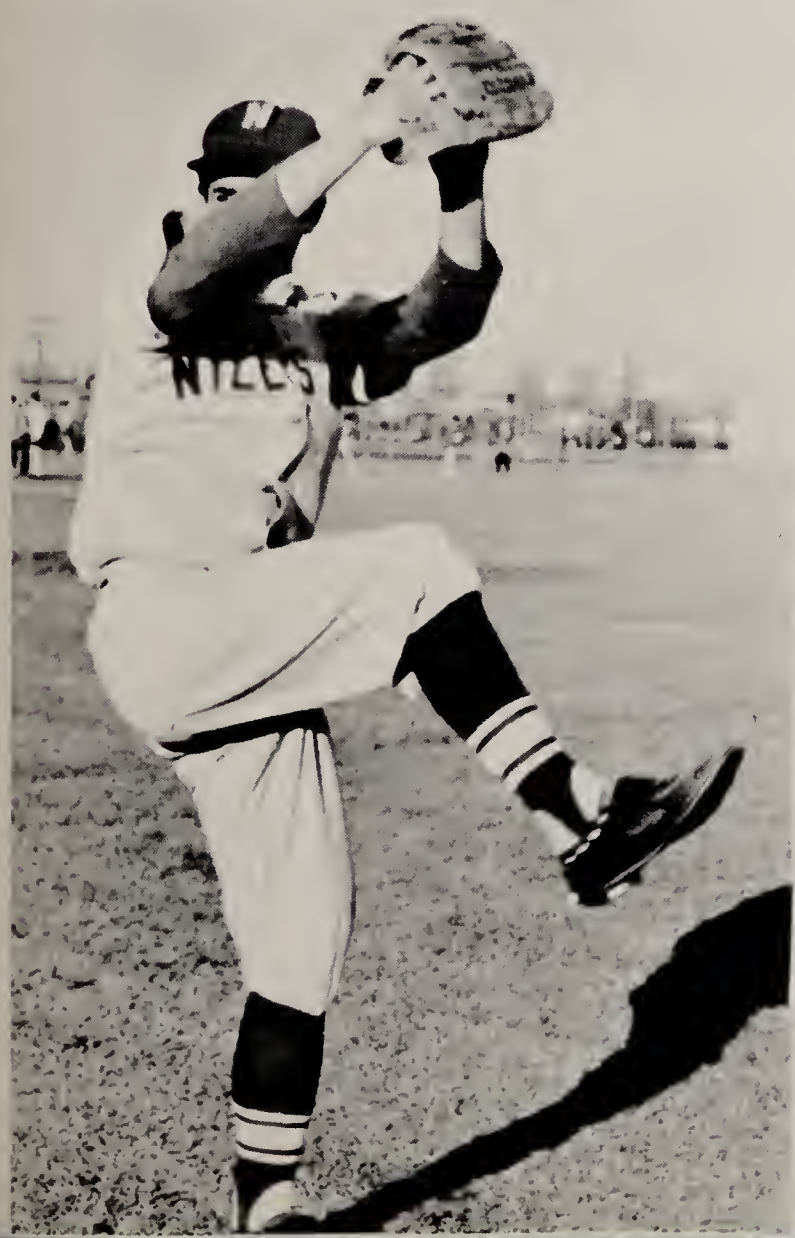
Bunting is a basic and important fundamental.

The recent influx of young pitchers will improve the status of Niles West baseball.

Fielding a ground ball is one of the most difficult defensive maneuvers.



The smooth, effortless delivery of this young southpaw is a trait possessed by all good pitchers.

Al Chapman is easily one of the most valuable players on the team.

LINKSTERS HOPEFUL

The Niles West Varsity Golf Team got off to a good start, defeating Evanston 174-187 in the first match of the season. Outstanding performances thus far have come from Seniors Steve Elwing, Alan Fritz, and Tom Dahlstrom, all of whom are presently shooting in the low 40's. Also a great contribution to the team is coming from Captain Rick Ostergaard. Coach Jack Fabri looks hopeful about this years team, and predicts a much better season than last year.

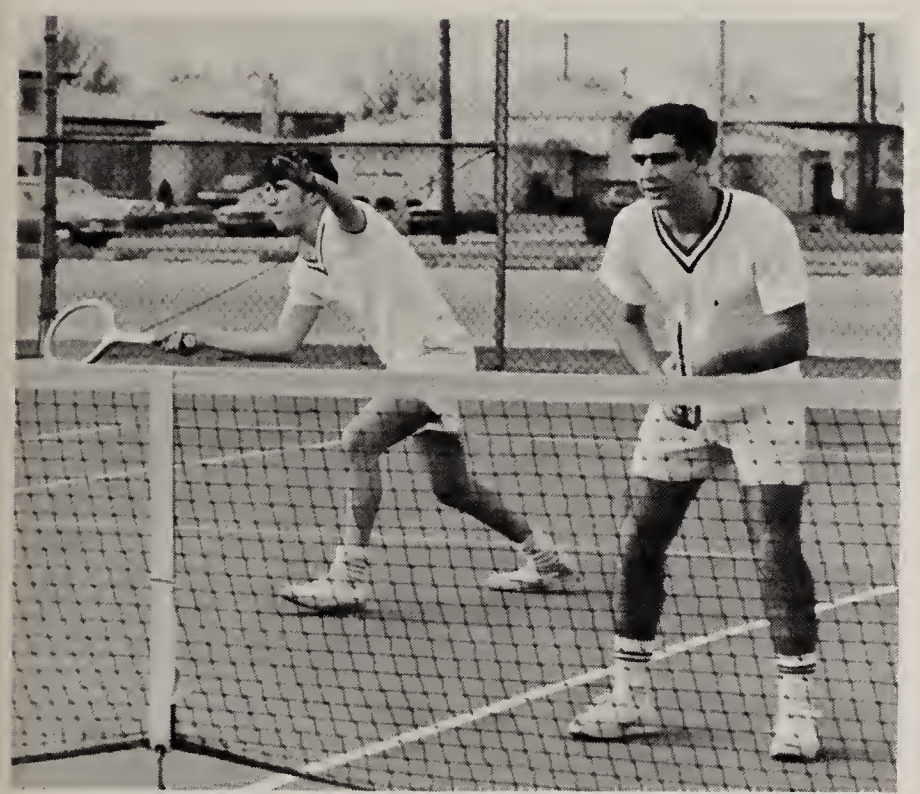
TEAM PREDICTED

Tennis is a sport which demands excellence from each individual. The Niles West tennis team, coached by Michael Broggi is a team of inspired individuals. Marty David, Scott Silvers, Gary Shaw, and Earl Steinberg to name just a few are all capable of achieving true excellence.

It still takes a strong team effort, however, to bring home a generous share of victories. A lack of depth can be fatal.

Senior Gary Shaw intently eyes his opponent who is preparing to serve.



Junior Earl Steinberg and Senior Marty David constitute an excellent doubles team.

Coach Michael Broggi discusses the importance of fundamentals with prospective team members.

SOPHOMORES EXHIBIT DETERMINATION

This being only the second year of soccer, the sophomores concluded what can be termed a very successful year. Probably, the most prominent feature of underclass soccer was the large turnout of both freshmen and sophomores. While the sophomores won only three of eleven contests, they exhibited a great amount of desire. Standouts on the sophomore team included Rollin Soskin and Jay Kenis, both of which played on the varsity level.

FENCERS STEADILY IMPROVE

The Frosh-Soph Fencing team, or "Apprentices," had a relatively unsuccessful season. Since West though, lacked a Junior squad, in many matches the Apprentices were forced to challenge Junior level teams. Coach Leipold remarked though, that the squad was enthusiastic and added that many Apprentices will join the Varsity Squad next year.

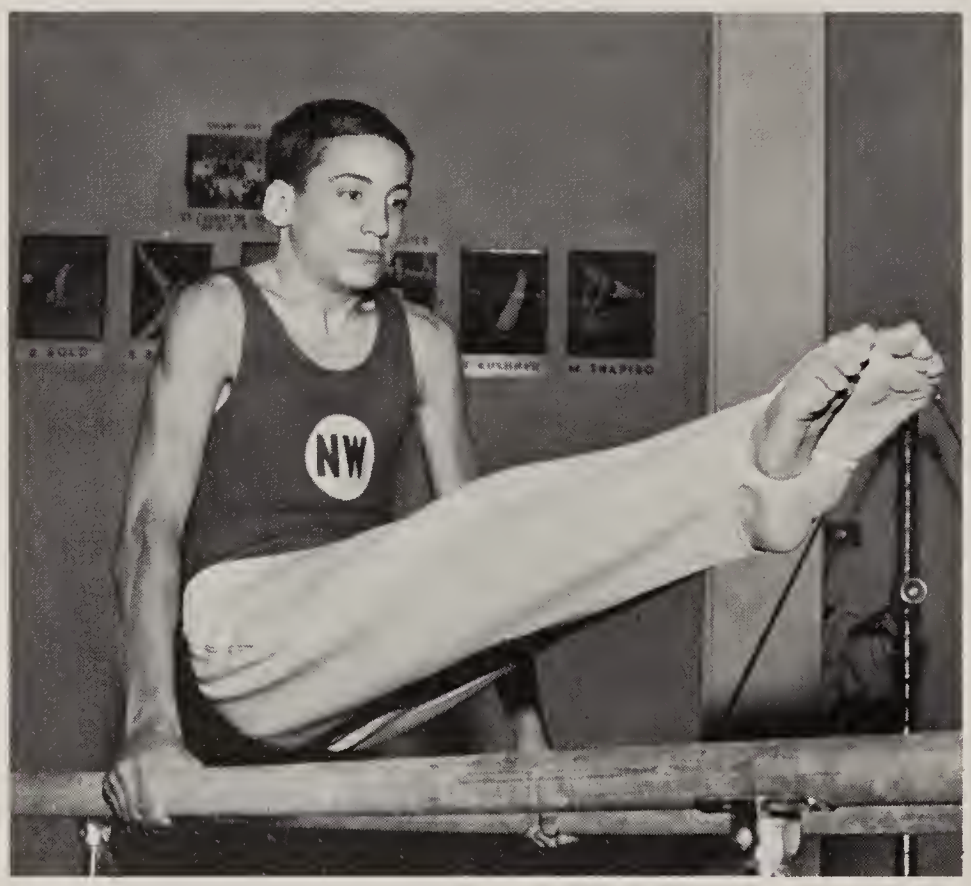
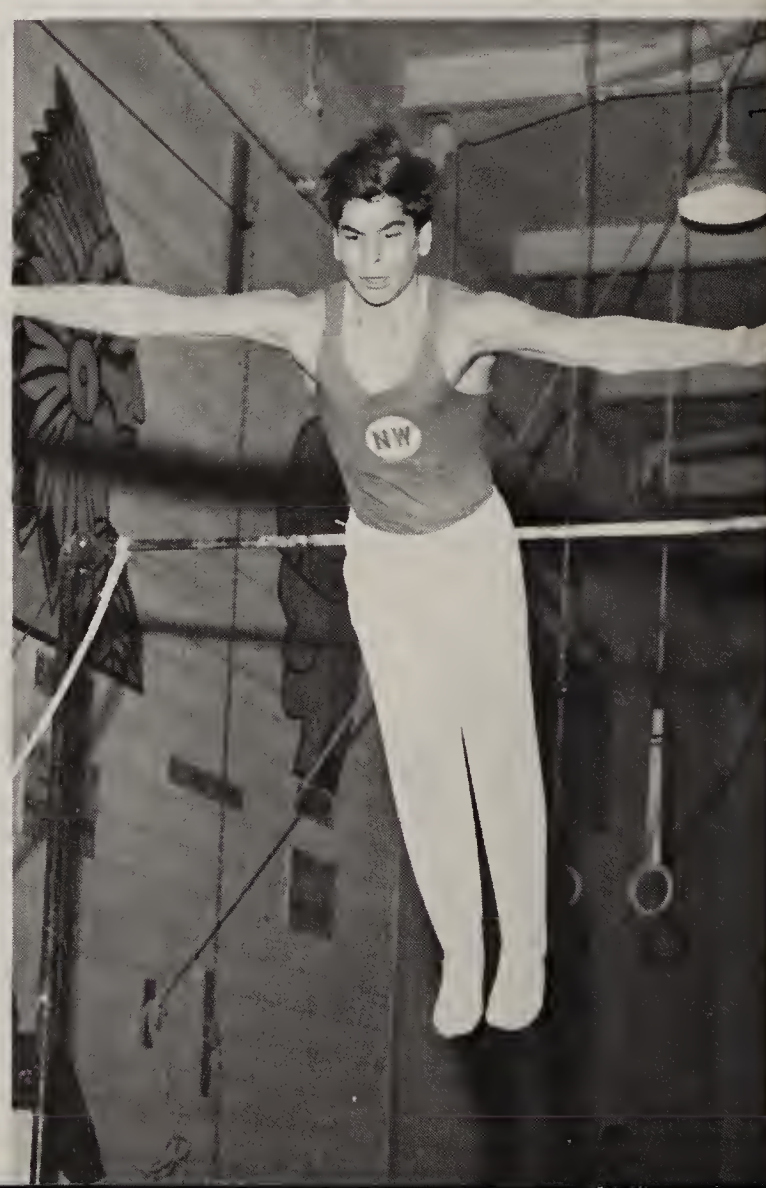
SOPHOMORES SHOW GREAT POTENTIAL

Sophomore John Prim exhibits skill that led him to the CSL Conference Tumbling Championship.



Demonstrating the "L" on the parallel bars is sophomore Doug Perz.

Conference All Around Champ, Bob Kushner, performs dismount on horizontal bar.



SOPHS SHOW PROMISE

The sophomore baseball squad opened the season effectively with two conference wins under their belts. Besides being undefeated in conference the diamond men as of May 1st carried an excellent five to one overall record, losing only to the Evanston Wildcats. Coach William Colyer feels "the team is strong up the middle and has a good defensive nucleus."

Outstanding individuals cited by Coach Coyer are Jim McEnerny, Mark Anderson, Jim Samatas, Doug Hoshizaki and Bob Johnson.

Freshman Paul Klipowicz fields ground ball.

Dear Mike,

Well it has been a long hard year. Being as smart in Algebra as you are Ha Ha! I suppose I'll never beat you, but I did on that one test. I got an A+++. Well I hope you have a hot summer. Don't work too hard. See you next year. Good luck in the Future

Luv,
Mary Fudke

P. S. - Miss Baim will never forget those earrings.

Dear (?) Mike

I really don't know whether I should sign anything nice in your yearbook, being as what you wrote in mine wasn't the nicest thing — but I've decided to be nice — So there!

Well, you've sure helped me get into trouble in 143 study. Thanx!

Lots of luck always and hope you like your new high school — probably will since I won't be there!

HAHA.

Bye.

Luv,

Lucille Ermilio

Grave men, near death, who see with blinding sight
Blind eyes could blaze like meteors and be gay,
Rage, rage against the dying of the light.

And you, my father, there on the pad height,
Curse, bless, me now with your fierce tears,
I pray.
Do not go gentle into that good night.
Rage, rage against the dying of the light.

Dear Mike,
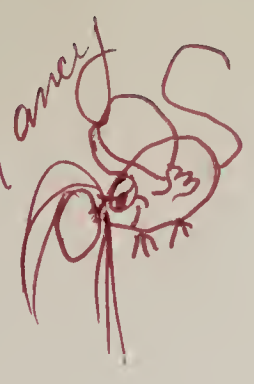
you and you grade are real great. Hope you like your new schedule & name. Iguess we just always get stuck in jumies. Salty & Mr. Yalie
Hard Luck always

Dear Mike,
It's been fun ~~on~~ failing you in Non-western. Just kidding you did real good for a freshman. Hope you have just as much fun in your Sophmore year as I did.
Good Luck,
Nancy



Dear Mike
I hope you come visit us in the future. Have fun at camp this summer. Keep in touch.
Love,

Good Luck when you go through college and the rest of high school!
Mark Atielow

Mike,
This is dedicated to that one person who could talk any 3 rows to plumbing a test!!
I'm glad I got to know you you're a good friend!!
Lots of luck!
Debbie Clington

Dear Mike,
I really don't know you very well so I don't have really too much to say but have a real good time for the rest of your life. Now for the rest of your life with your freshman year & next year you'll be a "big" sophomore & you'll know every thing. But just don't get a big head. I also want to thank you for making maps for me (even tho I never got those ones of Africa)
Please disregard this
Good luck & good-bye
Joann Bielski

Dear Mike,
Even though you are moving I hope you will come back and visit us. I wish you the best of luck in High School and the future.
Love ya, Debbie Stein

Dear Mike,
It's been great knowing you this year. Good-luck next year & always.
